

PRESIDENT ADDRESSES INDIANAPOLIS CROWD

REMARK IS INTERPRETED AS A HINT THAT HE MIGHT RUN AGAIN

People Leap to Their Feet and Cheer
—Wilson Attacks Republican Party and Defends the Record of His Administration.

Indianapolis, Ind., Jan. 8.—President Wilson today voiced what a crowd of more than 4,000 people assembled here to hear him make a Jackson Day speech, interpreted as a hint that he might be a candidate for the presidency again in 1916. The people leaped to their feet and cheered until the president raised his hand and called for quiet.

The president had been discussing the Mexican question and referred to his belief that he knew the temperament and principles of the American people adding that he would not be fit to stay where he was if he did not understand them.

"There may come a time," he went on, "when the American people will have to judge whether I know what I am talking about or not."

There was a slight pause and then the crowd, which included the members of the Indiana legislature, jumped up and began shouting and cheering. Realizing the construction which had been put on his words the president held up his hand for silence and said:

"I did not mean to stir up anything. That was merely preparatory to saying that for at least two more years I am free to think I know the American people."

Previously the president had attacked the Republican party, defended the record of his administration on the Mexican policy and the tariff and currency questions and declared that a careful examination of the returns from the elections last November showed that if it had been a presidential year a Democrat would have had a majority of about eighty in the electoral college.

The president criticized Republican senators opposing the government ship purchase bill, whom he characterized as "self styled friends of business."

He said the Republican party had not had a new idea in thirty years and that "the Republicans do not know how to do anything but sit on the lid."

He added that the country wants the ship purchase bill enacted into law and "will have it."

A warning to Democrats not to break the solidarity of the party was spoken of gravely by Mr. Wilson. He declared that any such men will gain an unenviable position for themselves and mentioned Senators Kern and Shively of Indiana as men whom he "did not have to lie awake nights thinking about."

He continued "if a man won't play on the team he must get off the team" and later spoke of himself as "the captain of the Democratic team for the present."

The president spoke briefly of Mexico. He said that the people there are entitled to liberty, "no matter how long they take in determining it."

Speaking slowly and carefully, he declared that "so far as my influence goes, while I am president, nobody shall interfere with them."

He said that until the revolt against Diaz eighty per cent of the Mexicans never had a look-in as to who should be their government.

"Have not European nations taken as long as they wanted and spilled as much blood as they pleased to settle their own affairs?" He continued, "and shall we deny the same right to Mexico? No, I say."

Much of Mr. Wilson's address was devoted to the independent and progressive voters. He said that about one third of the Republican party is Progressive and about two-thirds of the Democratic party is Progressive. "Therefore," he added, "the Democratic party is more progressive than the Republican." He declared most of the voters of the country are independent but that it was his ambition to have them vote with the Democrats. He spoke of himself as an "animated conservative."

Referring to the European war the president said that the people of the United States should not pay too much attention to it but should get their own affairs in such order that they can be of the greatest assistance to the countries fighting. He closed his address with prayer that the time might come when the United States could be instrumental in restoring peace.

Business conditions were taken up briefly. He characterized "talk of business depression as a 'state of mind'" and said that the Democratic party had already done much to free business and that its program was not yet complete. Whenever the country really wants something besides talk he added it turns to the Democratic party.

The president advocated the establishment of a great federal employment bureau, said some means should be found for quickening and cheapening the process of the courts and spoke of the necessity of congress passing the administration conservation bills.

Cheering and hand clapping interrupted the president at intervals but he had trouble in making his voice reach to the people in the back of the hall. He was introduced by Governor Ralston of Indiana as one of the great figures of the

SITUATION THREATENS ENTIRE MINING INDUSTRY OF ILLINOIS

Spring Valley Workers Strike Because of Disagreement Over a $20 Claim Brought by a Miner—Operators May Abrogate Contract.

Springfield, Ill., Jan. 8.—A situation exists between the mine operators and miners of Illinois, threatening the mining industry of the state, as the result of a disagreement over a $20 claim, brought by a miner employed by the Berry Mining company of Spring Valley. The company refused to pay the claim and the 500 miners employed at the mine walked out on a strike. The operators have notified the miners that they will abrogate the contract entered into by both parties last spring unless the miners' organization changes its attitude regarding the strike.

The striking miners have been sustained by the officials of the state miners' organization which has already given out more than $60,000 in strike benefits. Several plans for mediation have been brought forth but all have been rejected by the operators who refuse to settle any other disputes until the Berry Mine case is settled.

Should there be an absolute breach between the two associations it will mean that 70,000 miners will be thrown out of work.

STATE POULTRY ASSOCIATION HOLDS ELECTION OF OFFICERS

SPRINGFIELD, Ill., Jan. 8.—The Illinois Poultry association this afternoon re-elected its officers with the exception of Charles L. Koehn of this city whose duties as treasurer were given into the hands of Theodore S. McCoy, secretary of Golconda.

Guy H. Woolington of Monticello was re-named president and Edward Brown of Mendota, vice-president. Thirteen district vice-presidents were appointed by W. A. Parker of Danville, chairman of the vice-presidents' committee, as follows: D. E. Hale, Chicago; J. W. Miller, Rockford; F. N. Perkins, Freeport; D. L. Warner, Kirkwood; Dr. G. C. Cleveland, Bloomington; Frank Baker, Danville; Theodore Bates, Pittsfield; J. C. Johnston, Springfield; Fred Landgraf, Marissa; Gus Lensefelder, Mt. Vernon; Theodore S. McCoy, Golconda and E. A. Webb, Benton.

WOULD EXEMPT LABOR BODIES FROM OPERATION OF INJECTION

SPRINGFIELD, Ill., Jan. 8.—The exemption of labor organizations from the operation of the injunction in state and county courts will be asked in a bill to be introduced before the state legislature at this session of the assembly. Governor Dunne was today visited by John H. Walker, president, and Victor Olander, secretary-treasurer of the Illinois Federation of Labor, and John J. Fitzpatrick, president, and Edward Nockels, secretary of the Chicago federation, who asked the support of the executive in the passage of the bill.

The measure to be introduced by the labor leaders will be patterned after the Massachusetts bill and will have the force with reference to state courts which the Clayton bill, passed by congress, has regarding federal courts.

RECEIVES PATHETIC ACCOUNT OF RELIEF FROM STARVATION

LONDON, Jan. 8.—(9:10 p. m.)—Herbert Clark Hoover, chairman of the American commission for relief in Belgium, today received from the commission's representative in the Belgium province of Brabant a pathetic account of the relief from imminent starvation of the inmates of the convent of the Soeurs Oblates, near Louvain, comprising sixty-five nuns and four hundred house-servants.

For weeks the sisters had sheltered and fed the children and it was not until the supplies of the convent were almost exhausted that they sent an appeal to the commission for help.

Upon receipt of the request of aid for food a supply was immediately sent out.

CHARGES INVASION OF PERSIA.

Rome, Jan. 8.—(1:20 p. m.)—The Giornale D'Italia has published an interview with the Persian minister to Rome in the course of which the diplomat said Persia desired to remain neutral throughout the war but that its territory was being invaded by Kurds and Turks. Persia has sent an ultimatum to Constantinople, the minister said, the result of which was unknown.

The telegraph is interrupted and it takes seven weeks for a letter to travel from Terehan to Rome.

world and then an actress sang "We Take Our Hats Off to You, Mr. Wilson."

Immediately after his speech the president went to the home of Mayor Joseph E. Bell of Indianapolis, who was confined to his bed by sickness and later attended a reception given by the Indiana Democratic club, which lasted for an hour and a half. Later he took an automobile ride about Indianapolis in the automobile of Thomas Taggart and at 6:45 p. m. departed for Washington.

FLOOD OF BILLS WILL DESCEND ON ASSEMBLY

NUMBER OF MEASURES PROVIDE FOR MODIFICATION OF ELECTION LAWS

Would Permit Railroad and Traveling Men to Vote Away from Home—Laboring Men to Ask Passage of a Number of Measures—Will be Two State Labor Bills.

Springfield, Ill., Jan. 8.—When the Forty Ninth General Assembly disposes of the perplexing problem of organization and gets down to business a flood of bills will descend upon both branches.

Probably never before have so many measures been prepared in advance of a legislative session.

A number of bills providing for modifications of the present primary and general election laws already have been prepared. These include bills permitting railroad men, traveling salesmen and others whose duties take them regularly away from home to vote away from home on election days; requiring the publication of campaign expenses, changing the date of judicial elections so that they will be held at the same time as other elections and providing for shorter ballot.

Several members are preparing sets of bills to form a corrupt practices act.

Laboring men of the state will ask the passage of a number of measures, most of which have fallen by the wayside at previous sessions.

In addition there will be two state labor bills, one providing for eight hour work days for employees in state institutions and another providing for semi-monthly pay days in all departments of the state government. In the agricultural line the first bill of the session, introduced by unanimous consent in the senate yesterday by Senator Curtis, provides for a million dollar appropriation to compensate residents of the state who have suffered loss through the epidemic of foot and mouth disease, which has necessitated the slaughter of hundreds of thousands of head of livestock in the state.

The efficiency and economy commission will recommend the consolidation of a number of the present agricultural agencies in the state and bills along the line of these recommendations will be prepared. A bill already has been drafted for an act to abolish the present state board of agricultural commission to be named by the governor.

A pure seed law also will be proposed.

Two important railroad bills will be laid before the assembly at an early date. One, advocated by the railroads, prohibits trespassing upon railroad rights of way. The other is designed to abolish diagonal crossing of public highways over railroad tracks in rural districts.

A number of amendments to the present game laws will be proposed.

A closed season on quail for a period of five years is provided for in one bill. Another completely revises the present game license law.

The pay of election judges and clerks in Cook county will be increased if a bill now awaiting introduction is passed and approved by the governor. A bill of particular interest to the sporting fraternity would legalize boxing bouts of limited rounds and not for a decision.

Important to the banking interests of the state is a measure placing all private banks under state supervision.

The Illinois anti-horse thief association is preparing a monster petition to be presented to the assembly, asking for the enactment of a law prohibiting the carrying of loaded weapons along highways or the discharge of fire arms on public highways.

An effort will be made to pass a bill prohibiting itinerant drug vending in the state and another measure will fix a standard of toxic containers and prohibit the use of the same more than once. Another bill requiring compliance with certain standards in the sanitation of public toilets is said by the author to have been drafted to remedy conditions existing on the state fair grounds at Springfield.

Other proposals to be made through the medium of bills or resolutions according to intentions already announced by various lawmakers are:

Requiring the licensing of all operators of automobiles, including owners or members of families of owners.

A cegeneration act, prohibiting the inter-marriage of races.

Extending police powers to humane officers.

Prohibiting the issuing of hunting licenses to any person under eighteen years.

Eliminating the double taxation on mortgages.

Abolishing the state board of equalization and substituting a state tax commission.

Providing that in cases less than felonies, an agreement of two-thirds of the jury shall be sufficient to return a verdict.

Requiring the registration of births and deaths.

Tightening the present act which prohibits the marriage within one year of divorced persons and providing for the publication of marriage licenses before the ceremonies may be performed.

War News Summarized

Except for attacks and counter-attacks on widely separated sections of the battle lines, there is an almost complete suspension of hostilities everywhere, so far as can be gathered from the official reports. Where there is fighting, however, it is described as violent in character.

Near Soissons the French assert they have taken a German redoubt and two lines of trenches and in the Argonne they have re-occupied positions previously taken from them by vicious onslaughts of the Germans. In Alsace the fighting continues as has been the case for several days, with neither side having attained superiority.

In the east and west bad weather and mud are hampering badly the army, virtually holding the men in the trenches prisoners.

The movement of heavy guns in the quagmires which have resulted from the heavy rains is next to impossible.

Germany reports slight gains and the capture of prisoners in Poland.

A repulse of a counter attack and the taking of 400 prisoners and several machine guns is credited to the Austrians in Vienna's official announcement.

Petrograd says the Turks in trans-Caucasia again have taken a vigorous offensive, apparently in an endeavor to relieve the predicament of the tenth army corps which was defeated several days ago at Sari-Kamysch.

A newspaper despatch reports that Romania is mobilizing 750,000 men and that she will enter the war even should Italy decide not to do so. Austria is declared in a despatch from Innsbruck to have started to fortify her line facing the Italian frontier and an Italian newspaper asserts that Austria has sent a note to Italy protesting against Italy's occupation of Avlona, Albania.

The British house of lords has adjourned until Feb. 2nd. During its brief session Earl Kitchener, secretary of war, and the government leaders told the lords that Great Britain's preparations to carry on the war were proceeding smoothly.

Germany has informed the Vatican that there is absolutely no truth in the report that Cardinal Mercier, primate of Belgium, had been arrested or even had been confined in his palace at Malines.

A Rome newspaper prints an interview with the Persian minister of Italy in which the minister is reported as saying that Persia had sent an ultimatum to Constantinople.

FRENCH PEOPLE ENDURE SHOCK (AND STRAIN OF THE WAR WELL)

Eminent Member of French Academy of Medicine Gives Address in Paris.

Paris, Jan. 8.—(5:25 p. m.)—The French people are enduring the emotional shock and strain of the war well, said Prof. Anatole Chauffard, an eminent member of the French academy of medicine, speaking today at the academy.

Normal persons, he declared, had adapted themselves courageously to the agonies and uncertainties which suddenly had broken up all their customary habits of thought, action and feeling but in the case of certain exceptional subjects the emotional shock had resulted in mental confusion and excitement or in depression which had produced grave disorders in those of unstable nerves.

The early closing of wine shops and cafes; the prohibition of the sale of absinthe and the physical education, Prof. Chauffard said, were the things which explained the strength of the race, and these, he continued, also would contribute to the restoration of the birthrate and to the normal and physical condition of the nation.

ILLINOIS CENTRAL HAS NOT KILLED A PASSENGER IN 2 YEARS

CHICAGO, Jan. 8.—During the two years ending January 1st, the Illinois Central did not kill a passenger, according to their announcement tonight. On its Chicago suburban system, carrying 40,000 passengers a day, the company has never killed a passenger in the 53 years since the service began.

During 1914, the company moved 235,558 passenger trains a total of 13,135,412 train miles. During year 26,000,271 passengers were carried a total of 680,344,376 miles.

Making the county pensioning of the blind compulsory.

Abolishing capital punishment.

The repeal of the woman's suffrage act will be proposed but in view of Governor Dunne's attitude in the matter, it is doubtful whether such a bill will be pushed, as its veto would be anticipated.

In the way of so-called "freak" legislation there will be an anti-tipping bill and an anti-treating bill and a measure prohibiting the running at large of dogs.

WOULD PLACE EMBARGO ON WHEAT EXPORTATION

RESOLUTIONS WILL BE SUBMITTED TO CHICAGO RETAIL GROCERS

National Retailers' Association Plans Determined Fight Against High Cost of Flour and Bread—Department of Justice Officials Interested.

Chicago, Jan. 8.—Resolutions calling upon congress to place an embargo on the export of wheat and flour as well as on arms and ammunition, it was announced here today, would be introduced at the next meeting of the Chicago retail grocers and butchers association.

L. Westerfeld, chairman of the trades relations committee of the national association of retailers, planned to begin in this manner a determined fight against the high cost of flour and incidentally of home baked bread.

Leaders on 'change predicted today in some instances, that if the price of wheat went much higher, there would be a general turning to corn in place of wheat bread both in this country and in Europe. Other dealers were of a contrary opinion and declared that bakers' complaints were unwarranted—that a barrel of flour costing $7 would make 275 loaves of bread for which the retailer collected $13.75 at 5 cents a loaf. Who got the difference was asked and the conclusion was drawn that wheat was still relatively cheap.

Department of Justice Interested.

Washington, Jan. 8.—Department of justice officials expressed interest tonight in a report that the price of a loaf of bread was about to jump from five to six cents in New York, Chicago and possibly other large cities. No complaints had reached the department however, and no action is in immediate prospect.

Attorney General Gregory has kept a close watch upon any efforts to raise the cost of living through combinations of producers in any line and it is considered certain that a rise in bread would be looked into at once. It is realized at the department that with wheat far above normal figures bakers undoubtedly have been forced to face the prospect of higher flour.

Officials are interested however, in learning whether there is any conspiracy among bakers over the country to effect a raise in price of their commodity.

BUSINESS AGENTS OF THREE LABOR UNIONS ARE INDICTED

Federal Court Finds True Bills on Charges of Conspiracy in Restraint of Trade.

Chicago, Jan. 8.—Business agents of three labor unions were indicted in the federal court today charged with conspiracy in restraint of trade. Those named are Charles W. Fry of the Machinists Union, Michael Artery of the Machinery riggers and safe movers union and Michael Galvin of the truck drivers' union. Fry was the only one arrested. He was unable to give $5,000 bond and went to jail.

The indictment grew out of a shipment of machinery, from York, Pa., to Chicago. It is charged the shipment reached its destination January 10th, 1912, but was not unloaded until January 8th.

The three defendants charged with having caused persons to refuse to unload the machinery and threatened to call strikes among all of the men of several building trades at work for an ice company.

The indictment did not state the alleged motive of the business agents. Charles E. Cline, United States district attorney, volunteered this conviction the machinery was not delivered until $500 was paid by the officials of the Knickerbocker ice company, to which the machinery was addressed.

FORCES BATTLE FOR SALTILLO.

Laredo, Tex., Jan. 8.—The battle between Villa and Carranza forces for the possession of Saltillo raged with unabated fury early tonight according to meagre information reaching here. Carranza officials at Nuevo Laredo, across the border from here, imposed a strict censorship on Saltillo news but it was reported losses had been heavy on both sides and that neither side had gained any decisive advantage by nightfall.

The Villa troops are said to be partly in the city and partly in the suburbs.

KILBANE BESTS DAILEY.

Toledo, O., Jan. 8.—Johnny Kilbane, champion featherweight, outfought, outboxed and out dodged Frankie Dailey of Latrobe, Pa., in a ten round match here tonight. Both weighed under 133 pounds.

Kilbane was inclined to clinch at times and he was so speedy in the getaway that his opponent was unable to reach him.

Dailey was somewhat out about the eyes, but grimly stuck to his post and tried hard.

GARRISON DENIES RUMORS.

Washington, Jan. 8.—Widespread rumors that the war department has been selling its discarded Krag-Jorgensen guns to European nations was denied tonight by Secretary Garrison.

SCOTT, VILLA AND MAYTORENA HOLD PRELIMINARY CONFERENCE

State That the First Meeting Was "Cordial" and Will be Continued Today—Is Accomplished as Secretly as Possible.

El Paso, Tex., Jan. 8.—General Hugh L. Scott, General Francisco Villa and Governor Maytorena of Sonora, met tonight in a conference preliminary to a series, planned in an effort to reach a solution of the problem of protecting residents of American border towns from the bullets of belligerents on the Mexican side.

The United States army chief of staff and the Mexican leaders met in the United States immigration station at the American end of one of the international bridges spanning the Rio Grande between El Paso and Juarez. No official statement was given out except that the first meeting was "cordial" and that it would be continued tomorrow.

Villa was accompanied by El Paso by his entire staff, and Scott by his chief of staff, Lieut. Col. R. E. L. Michie and George C. Carothers, representing the state department who acted as interpreter.

Governor Maytorena, whose attack upon the Carranza garrison of Naco, Sonora, led to the conference, was attended by Alberto Morales, his legal adviser.

Generals Villa and Scott chatted for less than an hour. The meeting was accomplished as secretly as possible. Eight thousand Villa troops are now on their way to the Sonora border and Villa has avowed an intention of using them to crush the remaining Carranza border garrisons in the Mexican towns opposite Naco and Douglas, Ariz.

MCGOORTY EASILY DEFEATS MURRAY IN TEN ROUND BOUT

Takes Lead in First Round, Driving Home Several Telling Lefts and Rights.

Milwaukee, Wis., Jan. 8.—Eddie McGoorty of Oshkosh, middleweight, tonight easily defeated Billy Murray of San Francisco in a ten round bout.

McGoorty took the lead in the first round, driving home several telling lefts and rights to Murray's face and stomach.

The second round was a draw. In the third session Murray tore loose and drove a number of hard blows to McGoorty's face and kidneys.

The round was Murray's by a big lead.

The fourth opened slow but McGoorty stepped soon inside Murray's guard and drove two hard lefts to the face and stomach, putting Murray to the canvass for the count of nine. McGoorty failed to follow up his advantage and missed a chance to knock Murray down for the count.

The rest of the fight was slow, Murray taking the eighth by a shade and McGoorty having a big lead in all but two rounds.

After the fourth round the action was slow, both fighters slowing up and landing no blows with much force behind them.

SENATOR LEWIS IMPROVES; WILL BE OUT IN A DAY OR TWO

SPRINGFIELD, Ill., Jan. 8.—Senator J. Hamilton Lewis, who was taken suddenly ill here yesterday with an attack of indigestion, was so far recovered tonight that Dr. C. M. Bowcock, his physician said he would be able to leave his bed tomorrow and be about in a day or two.

"The senator was merely run down from overwork," said Dr. Bowcock, and his stomach went back on him. It was necessary that he drop his official duties for several days. Senator Lewis probably will be able to leave his bed tomorrow and should be about again in a day or two.

TENER DISCUSSES PLANS OF DEFENSE WITH LEGAL COUNSEL

PHILADELPHIA, Jan. 8.—President Tener of the National league today discussed with George Wharton Pepper, whom he has appointed counsel for the National league, plans of defense in the recent suit brought by the Federal league against organized baseball. Both the governor and Mr. Pepper declined to discuss the result of their conference. In a statement issued later Governor Tener reiterated his belief that organized baseball is not a monopoly and its conduct under the national agreement is not a violation of the law.

SIBERIANS SEARCH OUT ROUTED TURKS

OTTOMAN TROOPS ARE SAID TO BE SURRENDERING BY THE THOUSANDS

Allies Claim Some Headway in Flanders—Von Hindenburg Halts Russ Advance in Poland—British Produce Satisfactory Equivalent to German 42 Centimeter Gun.

BULLETIN.
Milan, via London, Jan. 9.—(3:07 a. m.)—The Secolo asserts that Count Leopold von Berchtold, Austrian minister of foreign affairs, has sent a note to Italy protesting against the Italian occupation of Avlona, Albania. Baron Sidney Sonnino, Italian minister of foreign affairs, has sent a firm reply, adds the paper.

BULLETIN.
London, Jan. 9.—(2:37 a. m.)—The Morning Post's Bucharest correspondent says: "Roumania is mobilizing 750,000 men of which number half a million form the field army. Roumania will strike even should Italy decide not to enter the war."

London, Jan. 8.—(10:10 p. m.)—The winter storms and floods, which they have put an end to any military operations on a large scale, have not been able to prevent the armies in the east and west from pursuing the offensive at isolated points along the two extended fronts.

In the snow covered hills of the Caucasus the hardy Siberians are searching out the routed Turks, who are reported to be surrendering by the thousands, while in Flanders, which is virtually all under water, the allies assert that they have found it possible to make some headway. Only in Poland, where Field Marshal Von Hindenburg's offensive is held up on the banks of the rivers which flow between him and Warsaw and in Galicia, where the Russians have been compelled to call a halt in their advance, does there seem to be an almost entire lull in the fighting.

The Russians continue their forward movement in the Carpathians and in Bukovina, while in France infantry attacks have been made at many points, followed by artillery engagements, sapping and mining operations. The French have advanced a few yards in the vicinity of Rheims but were compelled to give ground in the Argonne as a result of the Germans having mined some of their first line trenches.

With the reports of progress by the French in Alsace, where they are being strenuously opposed by the Germans, the names of some German places are beginning to appear in the official communications, which would indicate that the advance, although slow, is being continued.

Viscount Haldane, the British lord high chancellor, in the house of lords today made the interesting announcements that British experts were producing a satisfactory equivalent to the German 42-centimeter gun which did such execution against the Belgian fortresses at the beginning of the war and that recruiting was so satisfactory that the necessity had not arisen for conscription.

The chancellor would not disclose the strength of the British army but military experts estimate that it cannot be less than 3,000,000 men counting the regulars, the reservists, the territorials and Lord Kitchener's new army.

The reported arrest of Cardinal Mercier, primate of Belgium, continues to attract widespread attention. The Germans explain that he was not arrested, but that he was requested to refrain from inciting the populace of Belgium. The Dutch newspaper which first published the report of the Cardinal's arrest, insists, however, on the correctness of its correspondent's statement and says that even now Cardinal Mercier is not permitted to leave Malines. From Paris comes a report that Roumania and Italy have reached an agreement to enter the war simultaneously.

OFFICIALS WITHHOLD COMMENT ON REPLY OF GREAT BRITAIN

Bryan Will Discuss Note With President Wilson on the Latter's Return Today.

Washington, Jan. 8.—Secretary Bryan late today announced the receipt of the note from Great Britain replying to the American communication of December 26th, respecting American commerce.

The note which is about the same length as the American communication will be made public on Sunday afternoon by mutual agreement between the state department and the British foreign office.

More Candidates Announced.

Two more candidates for city commissioner entered the field yesterday. C. C. Berryman, member of the Jacksonville Farm Supply Co., announced himself, and J. E. Martin of the firm of Martin Bros., also made known his candidacy. Neither man has before held public office. Mr. Berryman resides on West North street and Mr. Martin on Sandusky.

While he has not made a formal announcement, it is understood that Patrick Devlin, of the third ward, will also be a candidate for commissioner.

Women for Election Officials.

When the city council meets next Monday morning it is understood that a petition will be presented from the civic league, or signed by women generally, asking that in the coming election a woman judge and a woman clerk be appointed in each of the sixteen voting precincts.

It is likely that the council will take favorable action on this matter, judging from the fact that women officials have been appointed by them in elections previously held. The plan may be adopted of appointing a woman judge in each precinct and allowing her to select a clerk. With more than four thousand women voters in the city, the desire on their part to be represented in the election machinery seems to be entirely proper.

Slaughtering Cattle a Safe Measure.

The action of state and federal authorities in ordering slaughtered all animals where some are found affected with the foot and mouth disease seems somewhat radical, but at the same time justified by conditions. It is unquestionably a serious thing for a man who is in the dairy business to suddenly receive an order that every head of live stock on his place must be slaughtered and that the work must be done within a very short time.

However, there seems to be little doubt but that the owner will be compensated for the actual money value of the stock slaughtered. No doubt men who in the dairy business will not be paid for the loss of the business itself, but at the same time it seems much better to occasion some individual losses than to take a chance of having the cattle of a large area infected with the disease. The authorities are not certain as to how the disease is communicated from one animal to another, at least when they are separated to any considerable distance, and since there is this uncertainty as to contagion, there is all the more reason why the radical measure of slaughtering cattle affected and those known to be exposed, is justified.

Plenty of Work for Legislators.

When the Illinois legislature has chosen a speaker and actually settled down to the business of the session the members will be confronted with even more than the usual number of bills. It is stated that not only many measures which have previously been before the assembly and fallen by the wayside, but many new ones as well will be presented for consideration.

Important among the laws proposed will be several amending the primary and general election laws. One of the amendments provides for the voting of traveling men without necessitating their return to their home city. Probably the first proposition to be considered will be a million dollar appropriation bill to provide for reimbursing owners of cattle which have been slaughtered because of the foot and mouth disease. A number of legislators would like to bring up a bill to render ineffective the equal suffrage measure passed by the last legislature but the attitude of the governor on this subject will forestall any movement of this kind.

Proposed changes in the tax laws are also important and a long list of other subjects to be considered might be mentioned. It is to be sincerely hoped that this assembly will not pattern after some that have gone before and leave all important legislation for action during the rush hours just preceding adjournment.

No Organized Endorsement Likely.

The movement to have the Civic league, the committee of twenty-five and other organized support for five candidates for city office does not seem likely to be carried into effect. There has been a desire on the part of a number of persons interested in the matter to make a determined effort to select men for office in the coming election whom they think especially fit to serve. The idea has been to choose such a list of men and then let the fact be known with the end in view of keeping the number of candidates at a low figure.

It is understood that at a meeting of the committee of twenty-five Friday night that the decision was against the open support of a list of candidates but that certain names were agreed upon of men who will have the moral, but unannounced endorsement of the committee. The nearer the approach of the primary day the greater would be the difficulties attending endorsement of any chosen five and it now seems probable that no such open espousal of candidates by various organizations will be made.

The Liquor Interests and the Legislature.

In the Chicago Tribune McCutcheon's cartoon pictures "Rum" as presiding temporarily in the Illinois senate in an effort to seat two democrats not elected in place of two republicans who were elected. Editorially the Tribune makes this vigorous protest against the effort that liquor interests are making to gain control of the Illinois legislature.

"If there is one thing that the state of Illinois ought not to tolerate, and The Tribune is certain will not tolerate long, it is the organization and domination of the principal law-making agency of the state by the liquor interests.

"What the policy of this commonwealth ought to be with respect to the regulation, restriction, or prohibition of the traffic in intoxicants is a matter of fair debate, is a legitimate political issue.

"But the control of our representative legislature by and in the interest of the organized traffic in alcohol would be a challenge to every self-respecting citizen, regardless of his opinion on prohibition or any other phase of the temperance problem. It would be a challenge he would answer, and the masterful and adroit gentlemen of the liquor lobby will do well to realize before it is too late that nothing could more effectively and powerfully advance the prohibition movement than knowledge that our legislature had passed into their hands.

"As it is, the saloon plays a vicious and all too prominent role in our politics. The ethics of organized liquor are about as ruthless and conscienceless as any force in public affairs, and whatever the variety of opinion as to legislation affecting the liquor traffic, there is none among disinterested citizens as to the propriety of government by the liquor traffic.

"The introduction, consideration, and passage or defeat of legislation for or against the manufacture, sale, or use of intoxicants are a part of the legislature's duty. But the organization of the legislature for the purpose of suppressing legislation is another matter.

"Illinois is not yet ready to throw over republican government and accept a dictatorship of rum."

NEW BOOKS AT THE PUBLIC LIBRARY.

The following list of new books have been added this week to the public library:

History.

Belloc—The French Revolution. "This terse and brilliant study sketches picturesquely the great characters of the revolution, discusses its theoretic basis, military developments and embraces vivid studies of Rousseau, Mirabeau, Danton, and Robespierre.

Faust—The German Element in the U. S. "A very comprehensive account of German immigration, its causes, areas settled and the German influence on the culture and life of the U. S. in all its phases."

Graves—Secrets of the German War Office. "The author was undoubtedly a German spy but this account which reads like a sensational novel, certainly never spoils a good story for the sake of the truth."

Tausig—Principles of Economics. "A work of unusual importance and comprehensiveness, by a scholar of thoroughly scientific bent, who illustrates the principles he sets forth by concrete examples drawn from thirty years experience. Exchange, trade and the distribution of wealth are the predominating topics. The best book since Mill for the intelligent reader with no prior knowledge of the subject and almost indispensable for the special student. References at the end of each group of chapters and a satisfactory index."

House Planning and Furnishing. McClure—House Furnishing and Decoration. "Includes chapters on treating impossible furniture and ornaments. Suggestive especially to those who already have good taste."

Quinn—Planning and Furnishing the Home. "Unusually suggestive to the average home maker. Specially good expression of the principles of house decoration."

Affalo—Sunset Playgrounds. "An Englishman's fishing days in Canada and California."

Eastman—Soul of the Indian. "Highly interesting account of Indian religious and ethical life before the advent of the white man. The author, himself a Sioux, has not attempted a scientific study but rather the Indian belief in the Great Mystery and their ceremonial worship are set forth."

Stanley—Autobiography. "Let young pioneers read it till they learn it by heart."

Recent Fiction.

Cooke—Bambi. "Impossible but entertaining."

Moore—The Peacock Feather.

Thurston—City of Beautiful Nonsense.

Miss Etta M. Massey of Kenyon City, Colo., is in the city visiting at the home of her aunt and uncle, Mr. and Mrs. S. Calky, 209 South Prairie street.

REV. SPOONTS DISCOURSES ON "SNAKE BITTEN JACKSONVILLE"

Northminster Revival Services Attended by Large Crowds Friday Night.

The services at Northminster Friday evening were largely attended. The usual song service of thirty minutes was rendered. A solo was given by Prof. Beckman. "You will reap whatever you sow." Mr. Loose offered the opening prayer. Text, John 3, chaps. 14 and 15.

Quotations from the bible were asked from the audience and many responses were given.

Some of the pastor's "hot shots" Friday evening were as follows:

"There is not much difference between a Methodist and a Presbyterian, the only difference is that the Methodist is always afraid of losing his religion and the Presbyterian of not having any."

"You know that when a Presbyterian gets dry, he is the driest of things."

"A man that will lie to be elected to an office will be a rascal when he gets into office."

"Some folks would like to have revivals if they did not cost anything."

"A lot of people are not cut out for revival work."

"I believe that a lot of people in Jacksonville have been bitten by the serpent."

"It is time to go to work. God will say to you, 'Did you preach my word?' He will say to you, 'Did you sit around here and warm benches and let men go to hell?'"

"This is no place for old, ossified, dried up, petrified, mildewed church members. Go to work for the Master."

"A man that will lie for gain, will steal for profit."

"The church member that will take a drink of whiskey on the sly, would put a plugged quarter in the collection plate if he thought it would not be found out."

"The way to get the unconcerned concerned is to get concerned yourself."

"I would rather be dumb than to have the power of speech to curse, and swear, and tell vile, dirty stories."

"I am not after your lands or your money, men, I am after your hearts. God help me to win your hearts to Him."

The speaker then discoursed at some length in a practical way on the subject of the evening, "Snake Bitten Jacksonville." He talked in an informal manner of the morality of the city, the elections were touched upon also, and much of the discourse was directed to the young men and girls of the city.

There will be no services at the church tonight.

Tomorrow evening the subject will be "The Hidden Things in Jacksonville Uncovered."

J. E. Frelberg of the Swift & Co., construction department, Chicago, is in the city for two weeks' work at the local plant.

RUSSIA CELEBRATES CHRISTMAS DAY.

War's Shadow Falls to Darken Customary Festivities.

Petrograd, Jan. 8.—Russia is celebrating Christmas. The war's shadow has failed to darken the customary Christmas spirit, which is more variously and intensely manifested in the Russian capital than elsewhere in the world.

The Christmas celebration is anything but a brief ceremony. Officially lasting three days, it is often prolonged by festivities well beyond New Year's during which time business is suspended and the stores are closed while the country is given up to one festive season, which breaks the long period of winter.

As in other places in Europe the war has interfered to some extent with the Christmas customs in Russia, such as feasting and drinking, which suffer from rigid enforcement of the prohibition laws and the difficulty in importing fruits and Christmas dainties. Oranges and apples were selling on the Russian Christmas Eve at 25 cents each.

SETTLE AUTHORITY OF POEM. Topeka, Kas., Jan. 8.—The Kansas Authors' Club, which holds its annual meeting tonight will officially settle who wrote the poem "The Call of Kansas". A long dispute has been waged as to whether Miss Esther Clark of Chanute or Mrs. Emma Clark Karr of Girard wrote the poem. A committee will report in favor of Miss Clark, and it is expected the report will be adopted.

SOCIAL EVENTS.

Miss Anna Brown, 1042 West State street, gave an informal tea Friday afternoon from four until six o'clock in honor of her guests, Misses Helen and Henry Lassiter, of Fort Worth, Texas. Mrs. Robert Ball of Kansas City, Mrs. George O'ear and Miss Margaret Clampt helped Miss Brown and her guests receive and Miss Millicent Rowe, Miss Lillian Davis, Miss Mary Wadsworth and Miss Elson Barnes were assistant hostesses. White and pink was the color idea in the dining room, where there were used pink Killian roses, white narcissus and pink candelabra. Mrs. James G. Capps and Mrs. Lloyd W. Brown poured.

Mr. and Mrs. E. E. Crabtree, 605 West State street, entertained informally last evening at bridge for a small company of friends. Light refreshments were served.

Mr. and Mrs. Anthony Branom, who were recently married, entertained a number of their friends Wednesday evening. Music and games helped to pass away the hours and during the evening light refreshments were served.

The Boosters class of the M. E. church of Lynnville, consisting of 35 members enjoyed an oyster supper at the home of John Dodsworth in Lynnville Friday night. After the supper, the evening was spent in a social way. Miss Ethel Masters is president of the class.

An interesting exposition of Morgan county history was given by Mrs. H. H. Richardson at the meeting of the Mound Woman's County club held Friday afternoon with Mrs. Harry Kitzner. Mrs. Richardson's topic was "Early Morgan County History" and her paper was well prepared. Miss Abbe Gunn presented a commendable paper on child psychology and Miss Annie Hinchison, in "The Benefits of Federation," outlined the advancement to be derived from union with the district, state and national federation. Excellent refreshments were served at the conclusion of the program.

A number of neighbors and friends of the Woodson neighborhood gathered at the home of Benjamin Smith Friday night where an oyster supper was served and the evening spent in a delightful social manner. Among those present were Mr. and Mrs. George Winters, Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Meggison, Mr. and Mrs. C. J. Lonergan, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Smith, Mr. and Mrs. Walter Smith, Mr. and Mrs. Harry Taylor, Mr. and Mrs. George Taylor, Mr. and Mrs. John Hoadland, Mr. and Mrs. James Lonergan, Miss Allie Lonergan, Richard and Ted Lonergan and John Lonergan and family.

The freshmen class of the high school held a party Friday evening in the new gymnasium. There were about one hundred present. Miss English and Mr. Huber are the class officers and aided the president of the class, Alvin Molohon, and the various committee chairmen in making the evening a success. Principal Stone had charge of the music. Games of different kinds were played during the evening. The chairman of the committees in charge of the affair were: Miss Edith Rodgers, chairman of the refreshment committee; Brooks Huber, chairman of entertainment committee, and Glidden Reeve, chairman of the decoration committee. The gymnasium was prettily decorated in the class colors, blue and gold.

An oyster supper, a dance, a social and general good time was had at the home of Marvin Thompson, north of Alexander, Thursday evening. Music and dancing formed the chief entertainment of the occasion with the oyster supper as a substantial supplement to the evening's enjoyment. Music was furnished by Gregg Tindall and George Killian. Misses Elsie and Essie Stice sang solos. Among those present were the following: Mrs. George Stice and daughters Effie and Elsie and son George, Mr. and Mrs. William Foster and children Harry, Walter and Emma, Mr. and Mrs. Isaac Worfolk of Jacksonville, Mr. and Mrs. George Killian, Miss Hazel Green, James Green, Miss Belle Turner, Marvin Thompson, Jacob Strawn, Jr., Scott Davenport, Mr. and Mrs. Gregg Tindall, Mrs. Robert Bissler, Irvin Bissler, Ella Bissler, Clark Moore, Mr. and Mrs. William Cleary, John Dunlap, Boone Nall, William Young, Bada Smith, Sydney Robinson, Bertha Dunlap, Josephine Ruble, Ben Stice, Carl West, Catherine and Dorothy Thompson, of Jacksonville, Earl Moody, Mr. and Mrs. Henry Weis, Mr. and Mrs. Lester Kennet, Nolan Smith, Gerald Green and Haldan Harnoth.

MANUAL TRAINING COMPLETE IN VARIOUS WARDS OF CITY

Course May Now Be Taken Beginning With the Fifth Grade and Going Up Through the High School—Complete Work Under Supervision of Miss Anna Brown.

With the equipping of the First and Second ward schools with Manual Training, the Jacksonville schools are now complete with a splendid department from the Fifth grade up through the high school, making a continuous course from grades five to twelve inclusive.

Thursday a Journal reporter visited the various wards of the city to inspect the equipment and to note the work being accomplished by the pupils. All the wards have complete bench equipment of Jack plane, smooth plane, try square, marking gauge, and extra tools in separate cupboards, of bits, braces, rip and cross-cut saws, chisels, drivers, oil stove, hammers, nail set, counter sink, etc.

About 175 boys in all the wards are taking the work. In the first ward the work is taught by Miss Josephine Yeck; in the second ward by Miss Elizabeth Hackman; in the third ward by Miss Flora Dresser and in the fourth ward by Miss Anna Long. These teachers are doing splendid work. The principals are co-operating in a gratifying manner. Some take teachers' classes, while the manual training teacher is instructing the boys. These various ward instructors in Manual Training are under the general supervision of the director of Manual Training in the high school, Miss Anna Brown, who also outlines the course of instruction. The manual training at the high school is handicapped somewhat as Miss Brown has a class every period each day at the high school.

It was a pleasure to note the interest manifested by the boys in the various wards. All are anxious to take the course, which consumes one hour and a half each week. In the elementary wood work, the use of tools and material is explained, making of simple articles, such things that are useful about the home.

The growth of Manual Training in the public schools has been slow but permanent. Twelve years ago a bench equipment was installed in one basement room at the high school, offering bench work to the 8th grade and high school students. Five years later a course in wood turning was added in another room in which had been placed three wood turning lathes, a grind stone and a band saw. These machines were driven by counter shafting from a main line shaft run by a motor. Mechanical drawing was introduced in the meantime and a large class has continued through the years.

Gradually rooms in the high school for Manual Training has become inadequate and the work has been greatly crippled. Every available space has been utilized, including the store room under the first stairway, lobby between the Domestic Science and Manual Training rooms. Now since the Domestic Science department has been moved into the new building, they have two rooms vacated by them. In these rooms are drawing classes.

Last year new machinery replaced the old and now instead of belts and shafting there are individual motors driving machines, which are a very great improvement over the old ones.

The plan now is to move technical work in the high school because the boys will have had an earlier start in the work, and in the near future the Manual Training department hopes to have courses in foundry, forge shop, machine shop and printing. The purpose is not to train boys for mechanics but to open up to them opportunity to get technical training and to give them vocational training in these branches, if they choose to follow them.

JOHNSON AND WILLARD ARE MATCHED FOR BOUT IN JUAREZ

Will Battle for Heavy Weight Championship of the World in Mexico on March 6.

New York, Jan. 8.—Jack Johnson and Jess Willard will meet in a 45-round bout for the heavy-weight championship of the world at Juarez, Mexico, on Saturday, March 6th, next. Final arrangements to this effect were made here today after other bids were received from Havana, Cuba, and Tijuana, Mexico.

Johnson, it is asserted by the promoters, has been guaranteed $30,000 win, lose or draw, while Willard has been assured a minimum of $15,000.

Other offers to stage the bout came from Billy Gibson of this city, representing a syndicate that was desirous of taking the bout to Havana, Cuba, and Jim Coffroth, the California promoter, who wished to have it held near Tijuana, Mexico. The bout will take place in the Juarez race track and the management of the track promised suspension of racing for a few days if necessary to facilitate the erection of stands.

Jess Willard, who has been in this city for a few days, will leave tomorrow for a brief stay at Excelsior Springs, Mo., and then proceed to El Paso, where he will finish his training. He will reach the El Paso quarters about January 25th, in all probability and expects to weigh about 230 pounds when he enters the ring.

Johnson and his handlers will establish training quarters at Juarez as soon as he arrives there.

THIRTY ARE HURT IN ATTEMPT TO GET INTO A TABERNACLE

PHILADELPHIA, Jan. 8.—Thirty were injured one probably fatally tonight when a crowd estimated at 25,000 persons were unable to secure admittance to the tabernacle here where a revivalist is conducting services. A colored minister was so badly crushed that he is not expected to live. None of the others were seriously hurt although some of them at a late hour were still at an emergency hospital installed near the tabernacle.

The ordinary police arrangements were found inadequate and the captain in charge sent in a riot call. The reserve squads from three nearby stations responded and succeeded in restoring order.

The revival meetings referred to in the above are being conducted by Rev. W. A. Sunday.

MANY DEVELOPMENTS SIGNIFY IMPROVEMENT IN BUSINESS

Advance in Cotton Gives Promise of Ultimate Relief to the South.

New York, Jan. 8.—Dun's Weekly Review of Trade will say tomorrow:

"Several developments highly significant of the improving tendencies in business, have attended the opening of the New Year. The advance in cotton gives promise, in spite of the speculative fluctuations, of ultimate relief to the south and the sales of futures are distributing over a series of months, by the natural process of the exchanges, the burden of carrying the great crop under war conditions. Over one million bales of cotton have been exported in the last four weeks and it is announced that large lines of German credit have been placed in New York banks in order to finance cotton shipments to Germany, which also materially aids the situation."

"Bank clearings for the week were $2,681,345,350, a decrease of 23.6 per cent from last year. Wheat exports were 8,746,943 bushels as against 5,475,190 bushels a year ago.

"Failures in the United States were 692 against 422 last year, in Canada, 73 against 51 last year."

OLD JACKSONVILLEThe Poseys.

(Ensley Moore.)

Thomas Posey was born in Virginia, on the banks of the Potomac, July 9, 1750. He died at Shawneetown, Ill., March 19, 1818. In the time bounded by these two dates Gen. Posey lived one of the varied and wonderful lives characteristic of the founders of the Republic of the United States of America.

He removed to Western Virginia in 1769, and entered the army in 1774, and became a captain in the Virginia service in 1775, and served under Gen. Morgan. Posey became a major and it, colonel, going through the Revolutionary War, and holding civil and military offices thereafter. He was the first or second man into the fort at Stony Point. In 1793 he became a brigadier general, serving under Wayne in the Indian War, resigning in 1794. He then settled in Kentucky, becoming a state senator and ex-officio lieutenant governor. When war with England was threatened in 1809, he was made a major general of the Kentucky forces. Soon after he removed to Louisiana, raised a company, and was its captain in the war of 1812. He was appointed a U. S. Senator from Louisiana, serving in 1812-3. He was then appointed governor of Indiana, and so continued until the admission of Indiana into the Union. His last office was that of Indian agent, at the time of his death.

A son of Gen. Thos. Posey was William C. Posey, who was born near Fredericksburg, Va., about the end of the eighteenth century. Gen. Posey's second wife, Mrs. Thornton, of Virginia, being the mother of Wm. C. Posey.

After coming to Henderson, Ky., in his childhood, Mr. Posey married Miss Ann T. Gatewood and they went to Winchester, Ky., where Mr. Posey was a merchant, and where his wife died, June 9, 1822.

In an address historical of the Central Presbyterian church, of Jacksonville, delivered in 1874, the pastor, Rev. W. W. Harsha, D. D., said of Mr. Posey: "Mr. Posey was manifestly led by Providence to settle in Jacksonville. He had been a merchant in Kentucky, but, desiring to better his condition, had made a journey on horseback from Kentucky to Missouri. Not pleased with the last named state, he turned his horse's head toward Kentucky again. When in the Mississippi bottoms, he missed his path, was far on his road to Morgan county, before he discovered his mistake, received such glowing accounts of this region of Illinois from the early settlers along the road that he concluded to see Jacksonville before returning to Kentucky. He came, he saw, he was captivated. He purchased a farm a mile and a half southeast of the original town, brought his children, and movable property from Kentucky, and settled upon his farm, his home until his death in 1849. Soon after coming here he met and married Miss Sarah Rannels, daughter of the Rev. Samuel Rannels of Kentucky.

Mr. Posey soon took part in one of the most important and historical events in the early history of this region. That event was the organization, in Judge Leeper's barn, June 30, 1827, of the first Presbyterian church of Jacksonville, of which Judge Leeper and Mr. Posey were elected the first Elders. It was a hot day in June when "Father," the Rev. John Brich, organized that first church of his denomination. Years have but added to the value of that work, to which Mr. Posey gave of his life, his time and his money.

Mr. Posey was the father of Mary Ann, married Edward Craig; Maria, married Jas. Craig; William, Thomas, Jane Eliza, Margaret, married Dr. Edwin Rees; Fannie and John. There were probably two others, dying young. Sarah, who married Jas. L. Barrows, came next after Mrs. Rees.

Wm. C. Posey belonged to that bright, enterprising class of Southern emigrants who came to Illinois in those early days, and who not only helped to develop the state in material things, but to establish the institutions of religion, and Posey was one of those who had given to Mr. Ellis in raising a considerable subscription here, for a seminary, before Mr. Ellis got in communication with the Yale Band. When Illinois College was established Wm. C. Posey was one of its first trustees, a position he held from 1829 until his death, in 1849. This reference does not say there were no original planners of Illinois College from New England. There were such, Rev. John M. Ellis being one, and there were others among the planners and subscribers. But New Englanders were not the only upbuilders of Illinois College, or of many other good things here. Rev. Thos. Lippincott, who accompanied Mr. Ellis, when the latter secured the site for the seminary, was a native of New Jersey.

The people of those days were frugal and careful in the extreme, but out of their small possessions they gave largely to the church and to the college, and to the Academy. Mr. Posey was a remarkable man, and of great value to his community. After the division in the Presbyterian church, in 1838, Mr. Posey adhered to what was generally called the "Old School" church, which after the Re-Union in 1870, was called the Central Presbyterian church, and that organization, under the lead of Dr. Harsha, built what is now the Baptist church, at the north-west corner of State and Church streets.

Among the most prominent of Mr. Posey's descendants was the Rees family. Dr. Edwin Rees, from Stroudsburg, Pa., was what was unusual in the early days, being an educated physician; too many of them only took up the profession, to the great injury, in cases, of their patients. Dr. Rees was of Welsh and French descent. Mary Posey, married John coming to America in 1860. Some were Huguenots, expatriating themselves for their religion. On one half of it is the inscription, in Latin, "Hope for a better age," on the other half the inscription is "The safest hope is in Heaven." Mrs. Margaret Posey Rees died March 2, 1864. The family lived west of Markham at first, but afterwards came to this city, where Dr. Rees built a large house on Routh street. He died Dec. 23, 1882.

Dr. and Mrs. Rees were the parents of a Mr. Posey, married John G. Morrison; Sarah Frances, married the Rev. C. C. Pierce; Ann Elizabeth, who died in childhood, and Margaret Posey, married the Rev. Chas. R. Morrison.

Mr. Posey's descendants in the Craig and Barrows family are prominent and well known, but details of their history are not at hand.

There was something of romance in the courtship of Mr. Posey and his second wife, Miss Sarah Rannels. It is told of as follows: "Wm. C. Posey met Sarah Rannels in Illinois. He records in his diary that, riding horseback in the country near Jacksonville, he bethought him that a Presbyterian minister from Kentucky was living somewhere near. He found the minister, and met his daughter, Sarah. Some time later he proposed marriage to the daughter, and was told he would find his answer in the 22nd verse of the first and only chapter of the Epistle to Philimon. Not recalling the verse, he was obliged to look it up before he could learn her reply. The verse reads: "But withal prepare me also a lodging; for I trust that through your prayers I shall be given to you."

NOTICE OF ANNUAL MEETING. The regular annual meeting of the Franklin Farmers Mutual, Fire and Lightning Insurance Co. will meet at Olinger's Hall at Franklin all day Tuesday, Jan. 12th. The report of the president and officers will be given, also new officers will be elected.

E. D. Scott, Sec'y.

FIRE AT MAYOR'S HOME At 8:20 o'clock Friday forenoon the department received a call from the residence of Mayor George W. Davis on South West street. The roof took fire from an overheated flue and a small hole was burned near the chimney. The chemical only was used and the damage was of no consequence.

DOWN AND OUT

Misfortune punched you in the neck, and knocked you down and tramped you under; will you survey the gloomy wreck, and stand around and weep, I wonder? Your hold upon success has slipped, and still you ought to bob up grinning; for when a man admits he's whipped, he throws away his chance of winning. I like to think of John Paul Jones, whose ship was split from truck to fender; the British asked, in blawsted tones, if he was ready to surrender. The Yankee mariner replied, "Our ship is sinking at this writing, but don't begin to put on side—for we have just begun our fighting!" There is a motto, luckless lad, that you should paste inside your bonnet; when this old world seems stern and sad, with nothing but some Jonahs on it, don't murmur in a futile way, about misfortune, bleak and biting, but gird your well known loins and say, "Great Scott! I've just begun my fighting!" The man who won't admit he's licked is bound to win a triumph shining, and all the lemons will be picked by weak-kneed fellows, fond of whining.

STATES RAILROADS ARE ABLE TO PAY THE INCREASES ASKED

Statistician Completes Four Days of Testimony at Wage Hearing—Expect to Complete Testimony For Men Next Week.

Chicago, Jan. 8.—The first stage of the arbitration under the Newlands' act of the wage demands of engineers, firemen and hostlers of ninety-eight western railroads is nearing its close. Testimony for the men, it is expected, will be finished next week and the presentation of the railroad side of the case begun.

What from the standpoint of the men is regarded as one of the most important pieces of evidence presented since the hearings began more than a month ago was presented today by W. J. Lauck, a statistician who completed four days of testimony of a highly technical nature.

The testimony bore on the ability of the railroads to pay the increases asked by the men. Lauck stated that they were abundantly able to do so, basing his statement on the voluminous array of figures from railroad reports to the inter-state commerce commission.

Lauck declared that forty-three representative railroads could deduct a proper profit on their investment in bigger engines and cars, deduced curves and grades and the like and still have left $50,000,000 each year to pay the men for the increased share they have had in heaping up earnings and for an emergency reserve fund. He stated that the ratio would hold good for all the railroads involved.

On this basis it was calculated roughly that all the railroads involved are earning $100,000,000 a year on increased efficiency of equipment, road bed, grades and labor. Accepting the rough estimate of the railroad managers that the advances would cost them $30,000,000 Lauck figured that the advance could be met and a handsome margin left over for an emergency fund. Warren S. Stone, head of the Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers, says that thirty millions is too large an estimate.

"It is too large for the reason that some of the advances which we ask are punitive, designed to make the railroads work more men and save the men from the health-wrecking hours they have to work," Stone explained to a reporter. He said that he never had attempted to calculate exactly what the actual cost to the railroads would be.

Lauck placed in evidence an approximation of the cost. Although Stone said that the increases asked do not amount to twenty-five per cent, Lauck figured that this percentage would cost eighty-one railroads $19,442,000 or 1.34 per cent of their operating revenue; 1.99 per cent of their operating expenses or 2.9025 per cent of their aggregate surplus.

James M. Sheehan, attorney for the railroads, maintained a cross fire of questions throughout the day but formal cross-examination was reserved for next Monday. His questions today brought an admission from Lauck that in calculating gross incomes the same dollar figures in certain instances in the earnings of a given railroad and again in the income of any other railroad owning stock in the one first mentioned.

He claimed that this was offset by the enormous wealth in coal and timber lands of certain lines but which are given merely nominal valuations in reports to the inter-state commerce commission.

EUROPEAN WAR NOTES

Amsterdam, via London, Jan. 8.—(7:08 p. m.)—The newspaper Tjld has received a despatch from its correspondent at Bergen-Op-Zoom, reporting an interview with a German officer at Brussels who declared that Cardinal Mercier, the archbishop of Malines, had not been arrested, was not imprisoned in his palace and that the prelate is free to go where he pleases. The German officer also flatly contradicted reports that priests had been arrested and imprisoned for reading Cardinal Mercier's Christmas pastoral letter.

Paris, Jan. 8.—(10:35 p. m.)—The following official communication was issued tonight: "To the north of Soissons we have captured a German redoubt, taking two successive lines of trenches and reaching the third line. Three counter attacks by the Germans failed.

"In the Argonne a very violent German attack on the summit of the heights of Chevauchee was made. We were at first forced to retire one kilometer (about two thirds of a mile) at this front but later made counter attacks and re-occupied our positions."

Amsterdam, Holland, Jan. 8.—via London, (6:50 p. m.)—In a despatch from Rosendael, the correspondent of the Amsterdam Tjld says that M. Desbain, who printed Cardinal Mercier's pastoral letter has been fined 500 marks ($125) with an alternative threat of fifty days imprisonment.

Continuing, the Tjld declares that the Vicar of Hemixen was kept a prisoner in the fort at Hoboken from Saturday noon until Sunday morning. The vicars of Duffel, Contich, Brasschaet and Schooten also were imprisoned. All of these priests are prepared the correspondent of the Tjld declares, to contradict on oath the Berlin semi-official telegram denying any parties have been arrested for reading the pastoral letter of Cardinal Mercier.

RAILROAD NOTES.

Both freight and passenger trade are looking up somewhat since the holidays. A good many long coal trains pass through the city each day and that helps the business appearance.

At the Car Shops.

Work is partially resumed at the shops a part of the force working four eight-hour day; each week while more work is going on in the blacksmith shop where it is six nine-hour days a week.

The round house is filled with tenders, largely, while it also shelters numbers 41, 50 and 51 which are in for small repairs.

Switch engine number four has come in from Springfield for a general overhauling.

George Souza, who was employed in the blacksmith shop at the big shears, has resigned his position and is now employed at the city pump works in the engine room.

Leo Hagerly has been employed in the blacksmith shop and will go to work Monday.

There is a shortage of coal cars on the road and several are being repaired and put in shape for use.

Orders to keep them moving are out and all agents are instructed to see that none are delayed.

The planing mill is kept going right lively at present, getting coal cars into shape.

Showing how carefully everything is guarded at the shops the management is required to take an annual invoice or whenever required to do so. By that means it will at once be seen how material is used. The stock keeper keeps a careful record of all that goes out and whatever is used on any special locomotive or car is charged up and that account with the invoice should equal the material sent the shops for use. The last invoice covered 82 pages and on each page were 59 items. A letter press copy is kept of it and the main sheets are sent to the office of C. S. Branch, superintendent of motive power, at Springfield. It has not yet been extended and footed so that the final result is not known.

In the machine shop engines 31, 54, 64 and 65 are waiting to be overhauled and some work is being done on them. As soon as trade on the road looks up there will be plenty of work in the shops to last a good while for the whole force.

The rolling stock in use on the road is generally in good condition and shows careful handling and good management.

CATCHER WINGO IS TRANSFERRED TO THE CINCINNATI NATIONALS

CINCINNATI, Jan. 8.—Manager Miller Huggins of the St. Louis Cardinals announced here tonight that Catcher Ivy Wingo had been transferred to the Cincinnati club. The two year contract which Wingo recently signed with the St. Louis club will be duplicated by the Cincinnati management and Wingo has agreed to sign it. Huggins said that as yet no players or money figure in the deal but something would be done later.

President Herrmann announced that T. S. Griffith, an Indianapolis A. A. outfielder had been secured by his club.

AT FIRST BAPTIST CHURCH The people of the First Baptist church have been fortunate in securing the services of the singing evangelist, Howard C. Goodpasture, who will be with them tomorrow and will sing at both the morning and the evening services.

Mr. Goodpasture possesses a rare voice and has done much singing as an evangelist and his efforts will be well worth hearing. Everybody will be welcome at the church at both services.

Get At the Real Cause—Take
Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets

That's what thousands of stomach sufferers are doing now. Instead of taking tonics, or trying to patch up a poor digestion, they are attacking the real cause of the ailment—clogged liver and disordered bowels.

Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets arouse the liver in a soothing, healing way. When the liver and bowels are performing their natural functions, away goes indigestion and stomach troubles.

If you have a bad taste in your mouth, tongue coated, appetite poor, lazy, don't care feeling, no ambition or energy, trouble with undigested food, you should take Olive Tablets, the substitute for castor oil.

Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets are a pure vegetable compound mixed with olive oil. You will know them by their olive color. They do the work without griping, cramping or pain.

Take one or two at bedtime for relief, so you can eat what you like. At 10 and 25c per box. All drug stores. The Olive Tablet Company, Columbia, S. C.

DID CHILD WAKE UP

CROSS OR FEVERISH

Look, Mother! If Tongue is Coated Give "California Syrup of Figs."

Mother! Your child isn't naturally cross and feverish. See if tongue is coated; this is a sure sign his little stomach, liver and bowels need cleansing at once.

When listless, pale, feverish, full of cold, breath bad, throat sore, doesn't eat, sleep or act naturally, has stomach-ache, diarrhoea, remember a gentle liver and bowel cleansing should always be the first treatment given.

Nothing equals "California Syrup of Figs" for children's ills; give a teaspoonful, and in a few hours all the foul waste, sour bile and fermenting food which is clogged in the bowels passes out of the system, and you have a well and playful child again. All children love this harmless, delicious "fruit laxative," and it never fails to effect a good "inside" cleansing. Directions for babies, children of all ages and grown-ups are plainly on the bottle.

Keep it handy in your home. A little given today saves a sick child tomorrow, but get the genuine. Ask your druggist for a 50-cent bottle of "California Syrup of Figs," then look and see that it is made by the "California Syrup Company."

ALL CATTLE HERE TO BE GIVEN INSPECTION

Nine Veterinarians Have Work in Charge for State and U. S.

Constant Vigilance Will Be Used Until Foot and Mouth Disease is Stamped Out—Livestock Commission Regulations are Explicit.

The federal and state authorities have united for very vigorous measures to stamp out the foot and mouth disease in Morgan county. The work here is being directed by Dr. Clancy, for the U. S. government, and by Dr. Thompson for the state authorities, assisted by Dr. C. E. Scott as a deputy state veterinarian, and various others. The situation is such that a request for additional assistance was sent to the state veterinarian's office Thursday and Friday a force of ten men was busy making inspections in territory within a radius of from five to seven miles.

As previously stated, just the origin of the disease in this county has not yet been ascertained and probably will not be, but that fact has no bearing on the measures which are being taken to stop the spread. Dr. Clancy has had a map prepared of the territory surrounding Jacksonville, and the work of inspection will be systematically carried forward. The work will not stop with one inspection, but will be carried on possibly through a number of weeks, until all suspects have been located or the danger of contagion is past.

Symptoms of Disease.

Asked yesterday as to the diagnosis of a case of hoof and mouth disease, one of the inspectors said "the symptoms are so marked that there is not any trouble at all in detecting a case of the foot and mouth disease. A number of cases found already in this county were so far developed that it is known that the cattle must have been afflicted for possibly two weeks. An animal which has the disease first gives the evidence by excessive slobbering and by moving about with the head hanging down. An examination of the mouth will show usually an such cases that the mucous membrane is ulcerated. The ulcers show for example, on the "padd" in a cow's mouth, or upon the sides of the tongue. When the disease has progressed further the tongue seems to rot away and there was one case that we have found which was so far developed that just a little tug pulled away the entire sheath of the animal's tongue. When the disease is a little further developed it is manifest all around the hoof of the animal and matter will be found there, as from an infected sore. The proof that a number of the Morgan county cases have been in existence for two weeks or so was found by the fact that the hoofs were almost rotted away from the disease."

Ban on Public Sales.

The inspectors have called attention to one requirement of the state board of live stock commissioners which prohibits the holding of public sales within a radius of ten miles of an infected herd unless a special permit is granted. The conditions found here within the last few days have thus far not changed quarantine orders. As related to the shipment of cattle it is possible for a Morgan county man to ship cattle to the markets, provided that the cattle are intended for immediate slaughter. This has been the rule for some time, and means of course that no cattle can be shipped intended for feeding or dairy purposes.

Dr. Clancy, Dr. Thompson and the others associated with them in the work are very strongly of the opinion that the vigorous measures which are being taken by the national and state governments to stamp out the disease are the only logical measures. There has been a great effort made in some quarters to stop the slaughter of herds where infected cattle are found on the theory that the isolation of the diseased animals and the treatment of the others would eventually result in putting a stop to the contagion; and at the same time save a great financial loss. Those authorities, however, who have thoroughly investigated the matter, believe that the slaughtering of the animals is the only safe action to take. Some years ago when a great furor was raised on account of the number of Illinois cattle found to be affected with tuberculosis, great opposition developed to the killing of such cattle, but subsequent events proved that the action taken earlier in this matter was correct. The inspectors here have called special attention to the following orders from the state live stock commission as pointed out in recent orders from the commission's office, signed by O. E. Dyson:

Live Stock Commission Rules.

"To prevent the spread of foot and mouth disease in cattle, sheep, other ruminants and swine, within that section of the state lying north of the following described line:

All of that section of the State lying north of the northern boundary line of the following counties, Crawford, Jasper, Effingham, Fayette, Montgomery, Macon, and Chatham south to the northern boundary line of Madison county, thence west and south to the Mississippi river, thence along the southern border of Jersey county, thence north along the western border of Jersey and Greene Counties, thence west along the southern boundary line of Pike County to the Mississippi river.

"Public sales of cattle, sheep, other ruminants and swine within ten miles of affected herds or infected premises are hereby prohibited, except by official permit.

"All purchasers of cattle, sheep, other ruminants and swine for immediate market centers for immediate slaughter, must secure from owner of all such animals purchased an affidavit setting forth the fact that said animals purchased are not affected with and have not been exposed to the contagion of Foot-and-Mouth disease.

Sterilizing Milk.

"Assistant State Veterinarians are hereby authorized to act officially in the matter of enforcing this order, which shall be in force and effect on and after December 14, 1914."

"It is hereby ordered, as an additional precaution to prevent the spread of Foot-and-Mouth disease in cattle, sheep, other ruminants and swine, that no skimmed milk or by-products shall be permitted to leave creameries or similar establishments until after such products have been sterilized by being heated to a temperature of not less than 212 degrees Fahrenheit.

"This order shall apply to that portion of the state now held in quarantine by the United States Bureau of Animal Industry, and shall be effective on and after December 26, 1914."

Canvassing Local Territory.

As stated above, all the territory within a few miles of Jacksonville will be canvassed by the veterinary surgeons and all cattle will be carefully inspected. The work will all be done under the direction of Dr. A. M. Casper of Springfield, who is in charge of a district in central Illinois comprising five counties. The state is directly in charge of the work although co-operating with the federal authorities, and the larger number of veterinarians here are federal employees. The force now here for the inspection work includes J. B. Clancy of Springfield, L. E. Thompson of Mason City, Charles E. Scott of Jacksonville, C. M. Corbett of Corpus Christi, Tex., R. O. Hyde and Theodore Brand of Petersburg, F. C. Swaney of Chicago, J. M. Lawson of Tallula, and T. B. Pote of St. Louis.

The territory outlined on the map extends west from Jacksonville to a point beyond Lynville and east to a point beyond Arnold. The northern line is about seven miles from Jacksonville and south the boundary is between three and four miles out. The lines do not run straight, but at varying points go to a further distance in order to include some known herd of cattle. The appraisal of the cattle on the J. M. Starr place has not yet been completed and the preparations for the killing and burial of the cattle are still in progress, so that this work will not be completed until early in the coming week.

Preventive Measures.

The measures to be adopted to prevent the spread of the infection must take into consideration the highly infectious nature of the disease, its ease of dissemination, and the liability of the virus to live a saprophytic life for long periods. Great care should be observed in keeping healthy animals unexposed to the contagion. When an outbreak occurs in a community, the owner should make every effort to keep other animals from coming in contact with his diseased cattle. This especially applies to dogs, cats, goats and poultry, which usually have access to stables and barn yards. He should be equally particular in prohibiting any persons from coming onto his premises, and especially if the latter be an attendant or owner or in any way connected with cattle. Such a herd may be placed under quarantine, with an inspector appointed to keep the premises under constant surveillance. This method is sometimes rather tardy in obtaining the desired result. For this reason when the disease breaks out in this country where the contagion is likely to spread by means of infected cars, manure, hay and other food, and when the loss attendant upon its obtaining a firm foothold would result so disastrously, it seems that this method of temporizing is extremely tedious and where more radical steps are required to suppress completely and totally eradicate the infection in the quickest and most thorough manner possible. It therefore appears better to concentrate the expense incident to the extermination of the foot and mouth disease by purchasing and slaughtering all infected cattle after judicious appraisal.

The carcasses of these animals should be totally destroyed preferably by cremation, or by burying them in a hole six feet deep and covering them with air-slaked lime.

Stable Should Be Disinfected.

"The infected stable should be disinfected by thoroughly cleaning it, scrubbing the floor with hot water, brushing down all loose dust from the walls and tearing off all wood-work which is partly decayed. Then the whole interior of the stable should be covered with a good coat of lime wash, containing one part of a forty per cent solution of formaldehyde to thirty parts of the lime wash, or four ounces of formalin to each gallon of lime wash. All stable utensils should be thoroughly cleaned and disinfected by the application of a solution containing four ounces of formalin to a gallon of water. The manure should be burned or spread over the ground; other than meadow land, that is to be turned under. No other cattle should be purchased for at least thirty days after the complete disinfection of the premises.

Inspectors Use Caution.

The men who go to infected dairies use the greatest caution to prevent spreading contagion. Each one wears a rubber coat and boots which are washed in bichloride of mercury and after use these garments and the rubber boots worn are steamed with permanganate of potassium and fumigated with formaldehyde. These precautions are taken to prevent any possible spreading of the disease. After every visit to a farm where infected animals are this procedure is gone through with the veterinarians thereafter go to any other herd without fear of spreading the disease.

Two Herds Reported Healthy. Mitchell Zachary yesterday called Dr. Scott and reported that he believed he had several animals infected with the disease. He described some symptoms which had led to this belief but later the cattle were inspected and were found to be in healthy condition. Mr. Zachary took the right action and if all farmers and stockmen will do the same way they will aid in stamping out the trouble.

The inspectors visited the farm of Joshua Vierth northeast of the city Friday and gave the herd of eighteen a careful inspection. The animals were found to be in excellent condition and the veterinarians told Mr. Vierth they had not found a better lot of cows.

ADMINISTRATOR'S SALE

OF REAL ESTATE

In the matter of the estate of Frederick M. Montgomery, deceased. Public notice is hereby given, that the undersigned, as Administrator of the Estate of Frederick M. Montgomery, deceased, by virtue of an order of the County Court of Morgan County, Illinois, will, on the 18th day of February, A. D. 1915, at the south front door of the Court House in the City of Jacksonville, in the County of Morgan and State of Illinois, at one o'clock p. m., offer for sale and sell to the highest and best bidder for cash, for the purpose of paying the debts of said estate, the following described real estate, situated in the City of Jacksonville, County of Morgan and State of Illinois, to wit:—

Lot Seven (7) in the Subdivision of Lot Forty (40) in Alexander Edgmon's Third Addition to the Town, now City, of Jacksonville, Illinois.

Orchards and Trees Showed Emphatically Ill Effects of Dry Season—Mortality of Able Trees Prevailed Over Large Areas—Oat Crop Practically a Failure.

(By Dr. T. J. Burrill, University of Illinois, to State Horticultural Society, December 15, 1914.)

In a previous article we discussed drought as related to soil strata. Leaving now the story as directly related to the soil strata, other comparisons for the two years are not without interest. This year as last the wheat crop matured in fine shape. Tree foliage both years was at least to midsummer or later, exceptionally good. This applies as well to forest trees of nature's planting as those artificially grown. Well cared for orchards in this respect presented to the trained eye a very satisfactory appearance, but with apples the crop was generally short and badly worm-infested. Both the trees and the fruit in the case of peaches were a joy to the heart of the owners.

Later in the summer uncultivated orchards and trees showed emphatically the ill effects of the drought. While those well tended came through remarkably in fine order and repeated even to a more marked degree the phenomenon of last year of fully holding the leaves to late in November in spite of the severe frost of October 27th, when the thermometer showed the temperature of 24 degrees Fahrenheit. On a trip southward over the Illinois Central on November 27th, apple trees were seen in practically full foliage near Carbondale, though they were bare from that point onward to the latitude of Memphis, and I suppose further south.

Whether the dry soil was or was not chiefly responsible, unusual mortality of apple trees prevailed over large areas of the main apple growing regions in the shape of Illinois canker and root rot, and elsewhere injury to forest tree kinds, especially oaks and hard maples, was reported. The most serious trouble of the kind seemed to be in the suburbs of Chicago where many native oaks of various species died or right or lost the uppermost portions of their tops. On the other hand cultivated nursery stock and newly transplanted trees, kept well mulched, seemed to defy drought and made good growth.

The oat crop was practically a failure over at least three fourths of the state, and pastures were bare two to three months or were so dry that fires when started cleaned up everything. In some sections corn produced little or nothing and as a rule nowhere a full crop, but nothing showed better the effects of good or bad tillage on all sorts of soils. This was abundantly evident both years, the difference sometimes showing remarkably on opposite sides of a division line. Some reports of as much as seventy bushels to the acre were made, while mostly less than half this quantity was harvested, is entirely believable from the presentation made by the fields in September.

A prediction was made in last year's paper, that in the event of severe winter conditions we should witness much injury to trees and buds this spring. This prophecy was not fulfilled but might have been if the conditions specified had followed. The winter was not a hard one, little winter injury occurred unless very common light bloom of apple trees is to be construed. There was reported to be by ten out of twenty four correspondents more than the usual injury to trees this year, but I have been led to infer that this was mainly due to the direct effect of drought rather than by the combination of summer and the succeeding winter effects which we commonly call winter killing. The combination which hurts is late, sappy, unripened growth (very likely to occur after serious check in July and August from drought) and hard freezing during the winter following. There was last year evidence enough of a second seasonal growth after the summer check, but as before said the winter was comparatively mild.

This year there has been less renewed autumnal growth though the drought was nearly as bad during the main growing season as it was before, and the danger therefore does not seem so great if we should have a hard winter. The untimely awakening of buds in autumn is sometimes best indicated by the appearance of fall flowers on trees which normally bloom in the spring. There was very little of this this year. Even on apples like the Duchess which is given to showing some fall flowers, there seems to have been few or none this year, and the same was evidently true of peaches and precious flowering shrubs. The fact is the autumnal rains this year, while quite sufficient to start the grass, have not penetrated deep enough to affect greatly tree roots.

While I write (December 10th) some tests show under and thorough dry earth one foot from the surface, and in well cultivated plots below sixteen inches. Below this depth I would hesitate to recommend any especially in soil land, the subsoil cannot be thrown up with a spade sulphur.

without the expenditure of much muscle and upon trial is found to contain not more than thirteen per cent, sometimes less, of water which can be evaporated by the heat of a steam radiator. In such soil tree roots have no power of taking the last ten per cent of the absorbed water. Should we not have more rain before the ground freezes deeply, trees may suffer during the winter, not necessarily from hard freezing but from drying out too far. The loss from the tops while leafless is not great but it is always something and there must always be sufficient supply from the roots or trouble ensues. It is very probable that the death of some of the oaks noted during the summer so suffered last winter and may show worse injury next year.

Such conditions prepare the way for insect assaults especially wood-borers, sadly illustrated by the death of many fine alms the last several years, notably in the region from Vandalla to Fairfield and southward. The trees which because of former moisture in the soil have shallow root growth clearly suffered the most, and the relation between this and wood boring insects' work is not hard to draw. The same thing may happen, and for similar cause, to apple trees though the round-head apple-borer does not seem to wait for decrepitude in the trees for an attack. But Illinois Canker on Ben Davis does apparently follow injurious soil conditions (drought) and will probably be seen next year again after the fashion of this year.

If this is correct there is added further reason for persistent surface cultivation through the summer. The absolute necessity for this needs no further emphasis but the want of it may be recognized in ways not usually considered.

WHEN AND MANNER OF
SPRAYING A PEACH ORCHARD

(By J. Mack Tanner, Flora, Ill., before State Horticultural Meeting.)

Peach growing in Illinois has taken on renewed activity within the past two or three years since the lime-sulphur and arsenate of lead sprays have come into use with the consequent control of brown rot, scab and curculio.

Half hearted and haphazard methods in growing peaches with inferior, specked, stung, misshapen and unattractive fruits to offer to the public has proven as it should be unprofitable.

The peach, more perhaps than other fruits, must be grown to perfection to attract buyers or to gain attention on the market, particularly during a year of heavy crop production.

Until very recently Illinois peach growers have been able to reach the harvest season with handsome crop prospects and then lost all hope of profit by reason of the development and rapid spread of brown rot. My own personal experience was most discouraging on this account. Even when the peaches had been carefully graded and shipped under refrigeration, they would arrive on the market with a large per cent showing decay.

The first consideration in spraying should be for the health of the tree. As a rule, unsprayed and unpruned orchards do not offer a very attractive field for the development of a San Jose scale but on the other hand such orchards produce no fruit while the smooth tender bark of the cared for trees seem especially favorable to the scales development. My first effort at scale control was made in the late fall with an application of cooked lime and sulphur, using fifteen pounds of each to the fifty gallons of water, the lime and sulphur having been previously boiled one hour in an open vessel with sufficient water to make a paste. Failure followed from lack of thoroughness or other cause since which time I have invariably given one application when the buds begin to show white in the spring, using the same made lime-sulphur diluted so as to give the proportion of 25 pounds of sulphur in 100 gallons of spray mixture. This effectually controls the scale on the fruit. A second advantage in the spring application is the control of the peach leaf curl. Operations may then cease for a month or more until the little peaches have expanded so that they are bursting or pushing off the dried calyxes when an arsenate of lead spray should be applied, using four pounds of the arsenate of lead and four pounds of lime to 100 gallons of water. Following this three weeks if the weather is dry, two if favorable to scale development, apply self boiled lime sulphur, using sixteen pounds of arsenate of lead. One additional spray three weeks later using the last formula might suffice but I advise continuing the spraying every three weeks until ten days before picking time, omitting the poison in the last application. Get fat stone lime that will slack quickly and put 32 pounds in a fifty gallon barrel containing about fifteen gallons of water. Add the sulphur at once and when the slacking lime brings to agitate the mixture vigorously begin stirring and stir enough to prevent burning until a paste is formed. Allow to cook until a reddish liquid appears on the surface when you may dilute with water to cool. Good results have been obtained with the ordinary commercial lime sulphur and with atomic sulphur and other sulphur preparations may prove equally effective but until tried in years favorable to scab development I would hesitate to recommend any substitute for the self boiled lime sulphur.

HESSIAN FLY
A GREAT PESTANNUALLY DESTROYS TEN PER CENT OF WHEAT CROP.

Way of Telling Infected Plants by the Two Principal Broods of the Fly—Some Valuable Methods Proposed for the Extirpation of the Insect.

The Hessian Fly and the chinch bug are the two worst insect pests in the United States. The Hessian fly destroys annually in the United States at least 10 per cent of the whole wheat crop, the damage in Illinois often amounting to several millions of dollars in some years. The Hessian Fly occurs throughout the wheat belt of the United States and Canada. It is distributed by flight and by the wind, and as a rule does not travel very far, but lays its eggs in the nearest wheat that it finds. Its food plants are wheat, rye and barley; there being as yet no good evidence that it feeds on any other plants. Certain varieties of wheat are sometimes advertised as being "fly-proof" though a few varieties are not quite so susceptible to injury as others. Varieties of wheat with a stiff, flinty stem stand up under a moderate amount of injury better than weaker stemmed varieties, and varieties that tiller freely are to be preferred.

Young infested plants have a bunchy appearance, the leaves rising straight from the ground. The internodes are undeveloped and the leaves are often broad and darker green than normal, often bluish green. Such plants as these are easily killed by frost, though it happens that the tillers from such affected plants produce a fairly good second growth of wheat. Infected plants turn yellow and then brown. In some, the straw breaks at the joints where the larvae have been working. Frequently less grain ripens than was sown. The larvae work under the sheath of the leaf, usually at the first joint and cause a slight swelling at the place of attack.

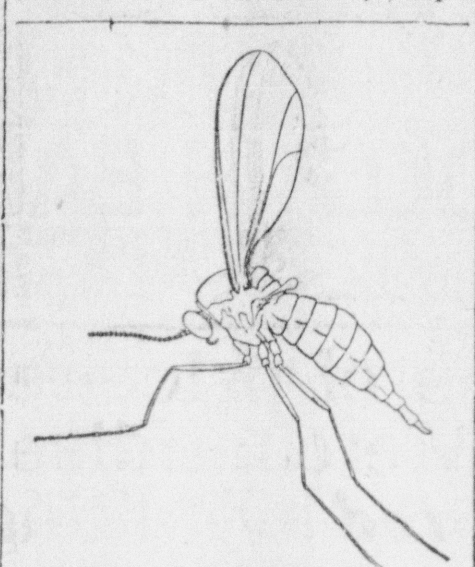

There are two principal broods of the Hessian Fly, the spring and the fall brood, and two supplementary broods often occur. The insect winters in the so-called flaxseed stage from which it issues as a winged insect. The large spring generation is on the wing in May and June in southern Illinois, and the fall generation in September and early October. Usually another generation appears soon after harvest time and this generation lays its eggs on volunteer wheat which carries it over until the planted crop appears in the fall.

Flies appear in large numbers after rains, and in a very hot and dry summer may not appear at all. The eggs are laid in the grooves of the leaves and hatch in from four days to two weeks. The larvae wriggle down under the sheath of the leaf and fasten themselves to the stem, there maggot-like larvae being mistaken often for the eggs of the fly. The eggs are very small, being barely visible to the naked eye, and most of these eggs are laid near the first joint of the plant. The flies are short-lived, living at most, only three or four days.

The most approved methods of control are as follows:

- (1) Sow wheat on ground not in wheat the year before. Don't sow wheat on infested stubble.
- (2) Prepare a good seed bed, finely pulverized and compact.

(3) Use good strong seed and test it. (4) Select a variety with a hard straw and one which tillers freely. (5) Burn the stubble after harvest or plow it under at harvest time. Most of the flies are left in the stubble at harvest. If the stubble is mixed with clover or timothy, one should naturally use one's own judgment. It may be best to sacrifice the crop in order to kill the fly. (6) Burn chaff, screenings and other waste from infested fields. (7) Destroy the volunteer wheat which springs up after harvest, time by plowing, disking, or otherwise before the larvae have matured in it. For example, plow the volunteer wheat under and roll it when the wheat is three or four inches high. (8) Rotation of crops is of course, effective. (9) The method usually adopted ed in this state is that of late sowing. A farmer must use his judgment in regard to this, as the seasons vary so much in different years. In an average year, however, according to the state entomologist, the proper time for sowing wheat is about September 20 in northern Illinois, September 30th in central Illinois and October 10th in the southern part of the state. Early sowing of wheat is strongly to be condemned. An early sown field of wheat becomes heavily infested in the fall and the flies from this wheat the following spring, will infest the late sown wheat on other farms nearby.

If all the farmers in the community would co-operate it would be possible to reduce the Hessian fly to insignificant numbers in a single season.

This could be done for example, if every farmer destroyed the fly in the stubble and killed it off by plowing under the volunteer wheat. Farmers should influence their neighbors as far as possible not to sow wheat too early.

For detailed information upon this and other insect pests of the state, apply to the state entomologist, Dr. S. A. Forbes, Urbana, Illinois.

COME BACK IN FAVORBEING PRAISED BY THOSE WHO HAVE STUDIED IT.

Will Grow Under Many Conditions of Soil and Climate and Endure Extremes of Temperature—Will Not Bloat Stock and is a Great Bee Plant.

Very generally throughout the country sweet clover is being praised by those who have made some study of its value and by those who have some experience in producing it as a crop.

What is Said of Sweet Clover.

It will grow under many conditions of soil and climate—will endure extremes of temperature and grow on soil too poor for alfalfa. Like alfalfa, it is rich in protein. It is a great soil enriching crop. It is a valuable plant for the honey bee.

Mr. G. Fred Miller of Topeka, Kansas, says of sweet clover: "It will grow where nothing else will—not even weeds. It flourishes on finest soil and will also produce abundantly upon the barren waste. Sweet clover is the greatest drought resister of all forage plants; its roots will penetrate the hardest of soils, even taking root in rock."

Will Not Bloat Stock.

For pasture, sweet clover is far superior to alfalfa, for it contains an ingredient which eliminates any possibility of bloatage, which is the most serious and dangerous drawback to alfalfa for pasturage. As for alfalfa, it requires the best soil to get good results, but sweet clover does exceedingly well on the poorest, turning a barren, worn-out pasture into a profitable feed lot."

Mr. E. J. McKinney, Kentucky experiment station, says: "Under many conditions of soil and climate sweet clover will doubtless prove one of the most valuable leguminous plants that can be grown. However, there are some instances where it might prove so troublesome as a weed that its culture would be inadvisable. On rich soils, where clover and alfalfa thrive, sweet clover can hardly be regarded as of great value. Its mission is to aid in building up run down soils, or as forage when other more valuable forage crops will not succeed."

Mr. J. F. Duggar says:

"Another use of mellilotus is as a bee plant, for which it is not surpassed in the quantity or quality of honey afforded by any of the ordinary bee plants of this latitude. The honey is clear and of the highest flavor."

Mr. J. G. Mosier, University of Illinois says:

Add Much Humus to the Soil. "A few years ago the Illinois Agricultural Experiment Station made determinations of the amount of material, tops and roots to a depth of twenty inches, produced by sweet clover (Mellilotus julba). The total tops amounted to 5.18 tons, and the roots to 1.2 tons, making a total of 6.38 tons of dry matter in the crop when full grown and nearly mature. I think I am safe in saying that no other biennial clover will produce as much material that may be used for soil improvement as the white sweet clover.

Should Inoculate Before Planting.

Two very important things must be remembered, however, in growing sweet clover. The first one is that the seed must be inoculated with the proper kind of bacteria. This may be done either by scattering soil over the field to be sown, that was obtained from some place where sweet clover or alfalfa has grown, or by the glue solution method, which is fully as satisfactory and much easier. The second thing is that sweet clover will not grow satisfactorily in an acid soil, and that the soil, if acid, should receive an application of limestone, the amount applied depending on the amount of acidity."

The following are some additional facts:

The presence of sweet clover on otherwise bare soils, even as a weed, is not necessarily to be condemned, as it is building up the soil in both humus and nitrogen content and is thus preparing it for subsequent profitable crops.

The great numbers of failures in obtaining a stand of sweet clover are due in part to the high percentage of hard seed and in part to seeding on too loose a seed bed, especially when combined with a lack of inoculation.

Spring seedlings in general are satisfactory, but in the south excellent stands are also obtained from late winter seedlings. The latter method may prove generally applicable wherever there is abundant rainfall.

Analyses and feeding experiments indicate that it is nearly equal to alfalfa in feeding value.

The feeding value, palatability, and presumably the digestibility decrease rapidly after the blooming period.

Disadvantages.

1. If neglected and allowed to grow too large, stems become hard and bitter and leaves fall off.

2. Frequently stock do not eat it readily until they become accustomed to it.

ADVERTISING AND MARKETING THE APPLE

Fruit Possesses More Nourishment to the Square Inch Than Any Other Kind—"An Apple a Day Keeps the Doctor Away."

Advertising the apple so as to increase its consumption among the people was first considered by the International Apple Shippers' Association, and there is perhaps no man entitled to more credit for the efficient work that has been done along this line up to the present time than U. Grant Border of Baltimore.

In the beginning the work was carried on by a committee selected by the International Apple Shippers' Association, and the apple grower had nothing to do with it, but it was deemed that it would be better to form a separate organization composed of apple growers, as well as apple dealers, in order to arouse a general interest in making the apple popular by advertising.

Accordingly at a meeting held in New York City last spring the organization called the Apple Advertisers of America, was formed and the following officers elected for the first year:

Louis Erb, Cedar Gap, Mo., president.

E. P. Cahill, Hancock, Md., first vice-president.

John L. Gibson, Traverse City, Mich., second vice-president.

U. Grant Border, Baltimore, Md., secretary.

None of these officers are paid a cent of salary and they consider themselves amply rewarded for whatever services they may render to the apple industry by bringing about the consumption of 2 apples a day where one was consumed before. They would consider themselves even more than amply rewarded if they could induce the American people to adopt the baked Ben Davis as our national breakfast food, for the average sensible American would be sure to call for another after having eaten one of these delicious apples.

Their sole ambition is to be benefactors to mankind, just like the man who makes two blades of grass grow where one grew before.

There is something about advertising the apple that is entirely different from the general run of advertisements we find in the public press or displayed in other ways. Most of the latter are one-sided, that is for the benefit of the men who do the advertising while anything we say in favor of the apple is of mutual advantage. Every person who by reason of our advertising gets the apple eating habit is directly benefited in a financial way, as well as in health.

Outside of turnips and Kieffer pears there is no vegetable or fruit as cheap as apples are today, nor any that possess more nourishment to the square inch, and when it comes down to their wholesomeness as an article of human diet I need only refer you to one of four own citizens to convince you that there is nothing to equal them for Dan Coyne of South Water St., Chicago, has proclaimed to the world: "Health's best way eat apples every day."

Another wise man has said: "An apple a day keeps the doctor away." But I don't take much stock in that, for doctors generally are men of culture and refinement and I like to see them come around occasionally. Besides one apple a day isn't enough to cut much figure. If he had said, "A dozen apples a day keeps the doctor away," I might feel different about it.

Dan Coyne knows better; he is a Chicago business man and does not

SOME HINTS RELATIVE TO CULTIVATION OF FRUIT.

Best to Prune All Hardy Varieties in the Fall and Attention Should be Given to Trellis Building—Cultivation of Third Years Similar to Other Years.

(By E. J. Baxter, Vice-President, Nauvoo, Illinois, before State Horticultural Society.)

A preceding article spoke of the soil and methods of planting grapes. Following are other considerations.

Keep the growing shoots tied up to the stakes the first year, and keep the ground well cultivated and free from weeds. A row of potatoes or similar low growing vegetable may be grown in the middle between the rows of grapes, the first year to help defray the expenses, if so desired.

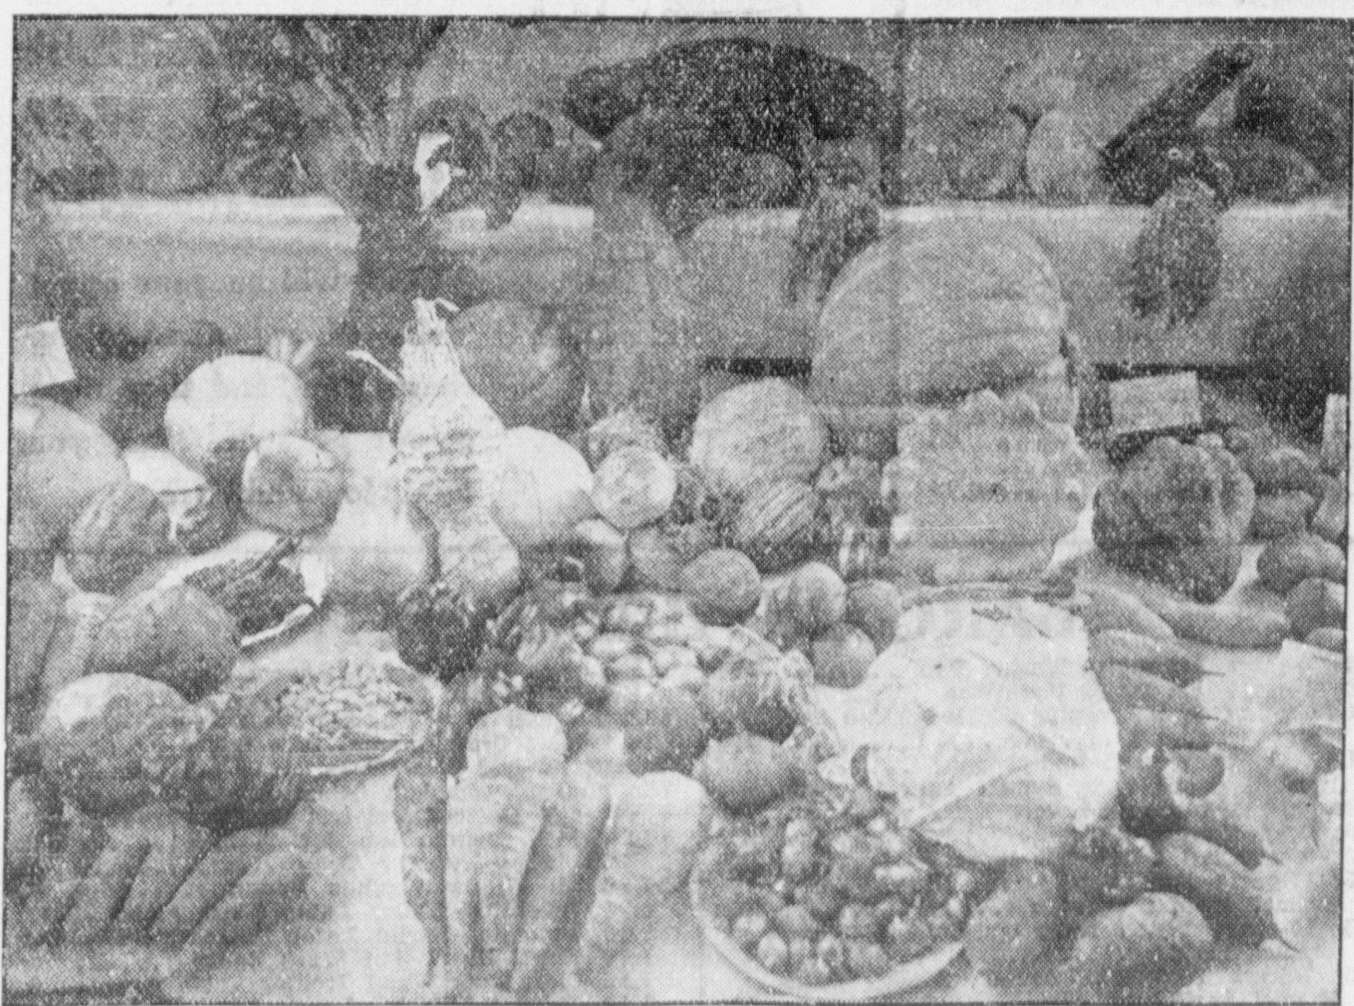

The best tools to use in cultivating the first and in after years are the vineyard disk, an A-harrow specially made for the purpose, with two handles to it, a five tooth cultivator like the Planet Junior, to which may be added a nine or ten inch one-horse plow with adjustable beam, and a horse hoe for use after the first year. The first year, late in the fall, after the first killing frost, plow the dirt toward the vines leaving a dead furrow in the middle between the rows. Never plow deep in the vineyard. Prune the vines before you plow or you may wait until the following spring. It is best to prune all hardy varieties in the fall, as one is not so rushed with work at that season of the year, as he is in spring, the weather is much more agreeable to work in, and I believe the vines will winter better especially if the pruning be done early. But if you wait until the following spring, first plow the ground back toward the center of the row, plowing up as close to the row of vines as possible without cutting the vines off. Then hoe down the ridge left between the vines with a hand hoe or horse hoe, then you are ready to prune. Pruning at the end of the first year is very simple. Select the best and strongest cane, coming straight up from the crown, cutting off all side branches close to the cane or stock, after which cut this cane back to say about eight to ten inches above the surface of the ground. That is all there is to it. I have made it a practice at this pruning, and I believe that my experience has taught me that it is a good one, to dig down around the vine and cut off all the roots to a depth of six inches below the surface of the ground. This allows the lower roots to develop and become strong before the top roots can get a start over them. The result is that the vines so treated will resist the ravages of droughts and of unusually cold winters much better than vines not so treated. I do this at the end of the first and second years of growth.

At the end of the first year, in the fall or spring, when you are the least rushed with work, you ought to begin to prepare for your trellis. Secure good, heavy, straight posts, preferably orange or black locust, nine feet long and six to eight inches through across the but, and set one at each end of every row about four feet away from the vine, setting it four feet deep in the ground, and inclining it from twelve to sixteen inches out of plumb away from the vine. A post so set will need no braces. All posts should be set right in the middle of the grape row, and not to either side of it. Now stretch a No. 12 galvanized, row, two and one half feet from the ground securing it firmly at each end by turning round the post and twisting it loosely back on the wire. Then fasten the wire to each stake or every other stake in the row with a small staple or with bailing wire. That is all the trellis you will need the second year. The second year two to three canes should be allowed to grow according to the strength of the vine, which should be kept well tied up to the stakes and wire. Cultivate in the summer and plow in fall as in the first year. Prune at end of second year as in the first year, the second year as in the first year, but leave two canes instead of one. One of these canes should be left long—three to five feet, according to the strength of the vines. The other cane should be cut short as at the end of the first year. In exceptional confine himself to one apple a day. He says "Eat apples every day," which means from a dozen to a peck and that is the right sort of talk to guard against over-production.

I often hear people talk about the over-production of apples, but let me tell you, my friends, there is no such thing as over-production that hurts anybody. It is under-consumption that causes all the trouble in the apple industry, and we mean to correct that by advertising the apple so as to get everybody, poor and rich and young and old in to the apple eating habit.—By Louis Erb, Cedar Gap, Missouri.

Growing of Vegetables.

In regard to the growing of vegetables in Illinois the Junior member of the firm of Keithley & Son, said on being questioned: "The difference in cost of producing vegetables of high quality varieties and of low quality varieties is but a trifle and this in the first cost of seeds. Choose a reliable seedman and aim to get the variety having highest quality even if necessary to sacrifice quantity. Given proper seeds the crop depends largely on conservation of moisture of soil and aeration of soil by proper and constant tillage. A relatively poor soil with proper cultivation will produce more than a moderately rich soil under poor tillage."

COMMERCIAL GRAPE AND FOR HOME USE

al cases, where the vines have made very strong growth the first and second year, two canes may be left, from three to four feet long, and the third one cut short as in the first year. This short cane is called a spur. At the end of the second year your trellis should be completed by setting posts between every second or third vine, depending upon the distance at which they are planted. Posts for best results should never be set farther than twenty-one feet apart and sixteen feet is much better. These posts need not be near as heavy as the end posts, and in fact, every other one may be mere poles, two to three inches in diameter, if they are of osage orange. Take down the wire you put up at the end of the first year, and string three No 12 galvanized wires along these posts, fastening the ends as previously described.
Place the first wire twenty inches from the ground, and the other two wires eighteen inches apart. Secure these wires to the posts with staples but do not drive them in tight, but enough to allow the wires to just slip through them.

The cultivation the third year should be the same as in the previous years, only the last plowing to the vines should be done earlier than in the first and second years, say not later than August 1st, and after this plowing smooth the ground with the harrow so as to leave the surface in good shape for harvesting the crop. If a little grass grows so much the better as it tends to keep the baskets clean when harvesting the crop. Care must be taken, however, not to let rank weeds grow, or to let the grass grow too rank as it would make the harvesting more difficult and expensive.

WORLD'S MARKET NEWS

WAR BUYING CAUSES WHEAT MARKET TO TAKE BIG JUMP

In the Excitement Near the Close
May Wheat Sells at $1.41½, a Bushel—Corn and Oats Also Show Gains.

Chicago, Jan. 8.—War buying of wheat broadened out to such an extent today that, to guard against the market running wild, brokers finally refused to take trades unless margins were doubled. In the excitement near the close, May wheat sold at $1.41½ a bushel, an advance of 2½c from the summit of the day before. The market finished unsettled 2½ to 2½c above last night. Corn gained ¼c to ¾c to net and oats ¼c to ¾c to ¾c.
The outcome for provisions was irregular varying from 7½c decline to an upturn of 5c.

Belief that Italy was on the verge of active hostilities on a big scale made the wheat market quiver with incessant demand not only from speculators but from exporters and millers as well. There seemed to be no longer any bears in the market, which appeared to have become a gigantic instance of successive sets of bulls selling out to other bulls as prices continued to advance. Traders were fired by reports that one miller at Minneapolis had bought in a single transaction 1,000,000 bushels, the entire stock of a line of elevators.

At the seaboard 1,600,000 bushels was said to have been disposed of abroad, including cargoes of Durum at $2.07 a bushel delivered in Italy as against $1.99½ on yesterday.

Corn and oats could not resist the lifting power of wheat. Moreover it was said 750,000 bushels of corn and 500,000 bushels of oats had been taken at the seaboard for export.

FUNERALS

Deutscher.

The funeral of Donald Albert Deutscher, infant son of Mr. and Mrs. Albert Deutscher of 1218 South Clay avenue was held from the home Friday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock, Rev. J. G. Kuppler of the Salem Lutheran church officiating. Interment was made in Diamond Grove cemetery.

De Enlow.

The remains of Mrs. Julia De Enlow arrived Friday forenoon at 10:05 o'clock via the Wabash from Springfield accompanied by John De Enlow, son of the deceased, with Mrs. De Enlow; Mrs. C. H. Stout and Mrs. Edward L. Merritt. At Diamond Grove cemetery, whence the body was at once taken for burial, brief services were conducted by the Rev. M. L. Pontius, pastor of Central Christian church. The bearers were D. W. Osborne, J. F. Kitchner, G. H. Harney and James R. Watt.

Pfeiffer.

The funeral of Mrs. August Pfeiffer, sister of Otto H. Buße of this city, was held Friday morning at 9 o'clock at the Church of the Sacred Heart, Peoria. Mrs. Pfeiffer passed away after an illness of considerable duration and her passing was not unexpected. She died Tuesday evening, Jan. 5, at 8:15 o'clock at St. Francis hospital. Mrs. Pfeiffer was 60 years, 1 month and 1 day old.

Mr. Buße was notified last week of a sudden change for the worse and has with Mrs. Buße been at his sister's bedside since Saturday.

DeEnlow.

The funeral of Mrs. Julia De Enlow was held at Diamond Grove cemetery Friday morning. The body was taken directly from the 10:05 Wabash train to the cemetery, where the Rev. Myron L. Pontius, pastor of the Central Christian church, conducted brief services. The pall bearers were George Harney, Frank Kitchner, William Osborne and James Watt.

Crouse.

Impressive funeral services were conducted Friday afternoon at 1:30 o'clock from the M. E. church in Murrayville for the late Miss Helen Crouse, in charge of the pastor, Rev. C. S. McCollom. There was a large gathering of friends to pay a last tribute of respect to one having so many friends.

Music was given by Mrs. C. S. McCollom, Miss Mildred Wright, J. H. Dial and W. B. Wright. They sang "Lead Me Gently Home Father", "Beautiful Isle of Somewhere", "Asleep in Jesus" and "Safe in the Arms of Jesus". Mrs. Nettie Million acted as pianist.

The beautiful flowers were cared for by Misses Jane Wright, Cecil Cunningham, Edna Sorrells and Esther Osborne. Interment was made in Bethel cemetery and the active bearers were Ira Fanning, Clyde Fanning, William Bacon, Reaugh Jennings, Covey Jones and Fred Still. The honorary bearers were Misses Edna Osborne, Gladys Osborne, Melinda McCarty, Grace Jennings, Mabel Moore and Ruth Miller.

MILLIKIN WINS FROM ILLINOIS

FANS WITNESS FAST AND FURIOUS GAME.

Local Quintet Puts up Splendid Contest Although Losing by Score of 18 to 31, to Veteran Team From Decatur—Illinois Plays Bradley Next.

In a game that was fast and furious from start to finish the Illinois college basketball team lost to the Millikin university five Friday night by the score of 31 to 18. The largest crowd that has ever gathered to see a college game in this city, was on hand to watch the fray. Seats were at a premium and in order to accommodate the enthusiasts at the other games on the schedule the management has decided to install two hundred additional seats.

As stated above the game was an exceedingly fast one. In fact it surpassed in speed anything that could be expected in the first game of the season. It was the first game of the season for the Illinois boys but it was the second for the Millikin players and in that fact lies a decided advantage which the visiting team had over the local men.

Shortly before the holidays the Millikin team played the University of Illinois and lost by the close score of 19 to 16. Last night's game was easily a faster and more spirited contest than was the Illinois University-Millikin game.

Another factor that worked to the disadvantage of the local players is the change of floors. Four days ago the Illinois management decided to play the home games in Strawn's hall instead of in the college gymnasium. The ever increasing number of patrons of the game has grown too large to be comfortably seated in the gymnasium. To bring the game closer to the townspeople and to provide the best possible seating arrangements the games are being played in the downtown hall. The change of floors on such short notice placed the Illinois team on a floor that was practically as strange to them as it was to the other team.

McLaughlin was the highest point man on the Illinois team and one of his goals was a beautiful shot. It was the dash and fighting spirit of the Illinois players which brought joy to the local rooters in spite of the defeat.

The Millikin team is a well balanced one, made up of veteran players who play the game all the time. Illinois meets Bradley in Peoria next Saturday and on the following Tuesday Shurtlett comes for a game on the local floor. That game will doubtless see the Illinois team going in fine style.

The score of last night's game:

Illinois:	FB	FT	TP
McLaughlin, f	4	0	8
Harmon, f	0	0	0
Gary, f	1	0	2
Frisbie, c	1	0	2
Stewart, g	0	0	0
Capt. Atchison, g	2	2	6

Millikin:	FB	FT	TP
Adker, f	5	3	12
Wolnoven, f	1	0	2
McDavid, c	3	0	6
Catlin, g	1	0	2
Kilek, g	4	0	8

MORTUARY

Kirby.

Word has been received in the city of the death of Mrs. T. Kirby, at her home in Petersburg Thursday, having suffered a second stroke of paralysis. She was 55 years of age and a woman highly regarded in that community. Besides her husband she is survived by four children, Mrs. Daisy Rahn, Pekin; Mrs. Doris Groschwald, Thomas Kirby of Nebraska and Mrs. Carl Kirby of Petersburg. Mrs. Carl Kirby was formerly Miss Lucile Daniels of this city. The deceased was also a relative of H. H. Massey, residing southwest of the city. No funeral arrangements have been made.

Summers.

Mrs. Lucinda Summers died Friday afternoon at 2 o'clock, at the family residence, 534 South East street, after an illness of five weeks. She was born in Murrayville, June 6, 1849, a daughter of the late Edjah Henry of Murrayville, and was married Nov. 14, 1866 to J. W. Summers. She was a member of the Baptist church and a woman highly regarded in the community. Besides her husband she is survived by the following children, Mrs. Amanda Jolly, Franklin; Mrs. Mary Shelton, Lakota, North Dakota; Mrs. Laura Ludwig, Mrs. Emma McCurley, Harry Summers of Jacksonville. The children dead are Ross Summers and Mrs. Rosetta Holkenbrink. She also leaves the following brothers and sisters: Charles Henry, Franklin; Mrs. Lewis Kahl, Valley Center, Kansas; J. K. Henry, Nortonville; Mrs. Robert Fanning, Beardstown; Mrs. Henry Kahl, White Hall.

The funeral services will be conducted Sunday afternoon at 2 o'clock from the family residence, 534 South East street, in charge of Rev. Percy W. Stephens. Interment will be made in Diamond Grove cemetery.
